WILD WEATHER

CLIFF COLLAPSE AT LOWESTOFT

NORTH SEA AT ITS WORST

London, Oct. 26.
The wildest weather of the year was experienced during last night and throughout the whole of the day in the North Sea and along England's East Coast.

A terrific gale blew steadily, accompanied by hail, heavy rain, thunder and lightning.

Winds of over seventy miles an hour were recorded at many places, while an abnormally high tide was accompanied by heavy seas, battering the coastline and sweeping across the esplanades at Lowestoft, Yarmouth and Scarborough.

Hundreds watched the fury of the storm from the seashore.

A large fall of cliffs occurred near Lowestoft in the course of today, doubtless the result of the heavy pounding to which the base had been submitted during the gale.

The North Sea steamer services were subjected to considerable delay, services serving Holland experiencing dangerously rough passages.—British Wireless.

EXPERT VIEW OF REICHSTAG FIRE

Van der Lubbe Could Not Have Been Alone

Berlin, Oct. 23.
"It was absolutely out of the question for Van der Lubbe to have set fire to the Reichstag alone." This was the considered opinion of Professor Jossé, who gave evidence in the Reichstag fire trial today.

Professor Jossé, who is an expert on such matters and who gave evidence as such, declared that at least 40 lb. of liquid must have been used to fire the Reichstag hall alone. He said that Van der Lubbe had insufficient time to set it alight and that it needed two or more persons.

The Professor believed that the fire started in the stenographers' room and he advanced the theory that the extraordinary rapid spread of the flames could only be explained if material soaked in petrol had been scattered about. He declared that firelighters, as alleged to have been used by Lubbe, were insufficient.—Reuter.

FIGHTING EXTENDS

IMMEDIATE MENACE TO BANGKOK GONE

PREMIER'S WIFE MAKES OFFER

Bangkok, Oct. 26.

Fighting between Government forces and the insurgents under Prince Bavaradej appears to be extending in scale and preparations are being made for what may prove to be a long campaign.

It is quite evident that early reports of the suppression of the rebellion were distinctly premature and that while the menace to Bangkok has been removed for the moment, the situation is still serious.

This is reflected in the offer of the wife of the Premier, Phya Bahl, to employ the services of the Women's Party for defence purposes.

BEHIND THE LINES.

The Prime Minister has accepted the offer with the provision that the women's work shall be confined to the rear of the fighting line, their principal task being to help in feeding the troops.

Little news of the progress of the fighting is reaching Bangkok. Strict censorship is being exercised and the official communiques give few hints of importance.

There have been rumours again that the King of Siam has fled, but it is officially stated that he is still in residence at Singora.—Reuter.

THE NEW FRENCH CABINET

FEW NOTABLE CHANGES

Paris, Oct. 26.

M. Albert Sarraut has completed the task of forming his Cabinet and will submit the names to President Lebrun shortly.

A number of Ministers in the Herriot Cabinet of 1932 have been recalled; several of the leading figures in the Daladier Government retain their posts. New names are few.

The list is still subject, of course, to last-minute alterations, but at present the Cabinet is composed of:

M. Sarraut, Prime Minister and Minister of Marine;
M. Paul-Boncour, Minister for Foreign Affairs;
M. Daladier, Minister for War;
M. Chautemps, Minister of the Interior;
M. Bonnet, Minister of Finance;
M. Palmade, Minister of the Budget;
M. Queuille, Minister of Agriculture;
M. Paganon, Minister of Public Works;
M. Frot, Minister of Labour;
M. de Monzie, Minister of Education;
M. Daladier, Minister of the Colonies;
M. Pierre Cot, Minister for Air;
M. Rio, Minister of Merchant Marine;
M. Bonnefoy, Minister of Health.

MARRIAGE FESTIVAL

LOW BIRTH RATE ALARMS MUSSOLINI

Rome, Oct. 26.
Alarmed at the continued decline in the Italian birth rate, the Fascist Party has organised a Festival of Marriage to be held on October 30, when 2,000 couples will be married in Rome and its neighbourhood.

Following the ceremony, the couples will attend Mass and will then march in procession through the streets of Rome to Fascist headquarters, where each couple will receive a present from Signor Mussolini.

A mass baptism of babies will also take place at St. Peter's Church, where Mussolini has promised to present each infant with a complete outfit.—Reuter.

HITLER'S CHALLENGE

NAZI ENTHUSIASM IN COLOGNE AREA

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Cologne, Oct. 26.

The visit of Herr Hitler to Cologne to address an election meeting to-day evoked a remarkable demonstration of popular enthusiasm.

Long before the hour fixed for the meeting, thousands of people poured in to Cologne from the surrounding countryside, every train arriving being crowded to overflowing.

In the town itself, every house was decorated with flags and the streets were thronged with people.

SPEECHES DROWNED.

The introductory speeches in the spacious exhibition buildings were inaudible, in the storm of cries "Hail Hitler!"

Punctuated by rounds of applause, Herr Hitler's speech was largely a reiteration of his Berlin address of October 24, and he repeated his challenge to the world to show proof of German aggressiveness.

Hitler again asserted that Germany is solely actuated by a longing for peace and reconciliation.

ELECTION ARRANGEMENTS.

It has been officially announced by Captain Goering, Reich Minister of the Interior, that in order to ensure that the perfect fairness of the election on November 12 will be clearly apparent, reliable men outside the Nazi Party will co-operate in the electoral organisation, while the votes will be counted publicly.

Surprise, meanwhile, has been created by the fact that the name of Herr Hugenburg, appears on the Governmental electoral list which is now being prepared.—Reuter.

JINGOISM DENOUNCED.

Emphatically denouncing jingoism and re-affirming once more Germany's passionate and genuine desire for peace, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, at the foot of the monument erected in honour of those who died in the great wars of liberation, spoke to thousands of Storm Troopers at Kehlheim on Sunday, the report of this gathering being the alleged cause of the arrest of Mr. Noel Pantier, the Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

"We who have been in the trenches for 4 1/2 years know how dreadful and heavy are the burdens which war places on a nation," the Nazi leader said. "We are probably best qualified to distinguish between cheap jingoism and a real and profound connexion with the own people. The German people do not long for war. On the contrary, because they love peace, they are fighting for their very existence and continuance. Our aim is to make our people happy again, to give them work and bread, again and the world should leave us alone. We want nothing but peace, but we refuse to be degraded."

REALISABLE TREATIES.

We frankly tell the world, if you wish to have us at international conferences, if you want to have us in the League of Nations we are agreeable, but only if you recognise us as a nation.

"We were, and are, at all times ready to sign treaties, if they could be realised and if they are in conformity with our feeling for right and justice. We want peace, but the world must know that, in the long run, this over-riding consideration of our people cannot be secured. There is no better guarantee for the cause of peace than the determined unity of the German nation."

What also, the Chancellor emphasised, can 60,000,000 people crowded together on a narrow base, with millions of lives and homes destroyed, with millions of people out of work, desire but work in peace and to see the light again?

A MONTH'S RESPITE

DISARMAMENT PARLEY ADJOURNS

BRITAIN URGES ACTION

London, Oct. 26.

The General Commission of the Disarmament Conference decided at Geneva to-day to adjourn until December 4.

In putting forward a proposal to this effect, the Chairman, Mr. Arthur Henderson, emphasised that the Conference must continue its work to arrive at a convention founded on the British draft, which would satisfy public opinion.

If the Conference failed it would be a disaster for the whole world. He recalled that the Bureau favoured an adjournment until December 4 in order to give time to smooth out the existing divergences of opinion.

The British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Captain Anthony Eden, expressed approval of the proposed short adjournment and remarked that while it was quite clear that the withdrawal of the German delegation could not be without effect on the proceedings of the Conference, the view of the British Government was that however much that event was sincerely deplored, it could not stop their work.

He urged that the delegations must not waste time in contemplation of the past but must deal with the future and should not be distracted from the object of the Conference.

The most effective method must be chosen and that was the Bureau's task.

Representatives of several other nations also expressed approval of Mr. Henderson's proposal. It remains for the Bureau to draw up a programme of work to be followed during the General Commission's adjournment.—British Wireless.

SOVIET'S TRADE WITH BRITAIN

EFFECT OF RECOGNITION BY U.S.A.

London, Oct. 23.

Speculation is rife in industrial circles in London regarding the probable effect of the rapprochement between Soviet Russia and the United States on trade between Britain and Russia.

Russia has been importing considerable quantities of goods from England, particularly machinery and rubber.

It is pointed out that Germany's exports to Russia have fallen considerably in the last year or two. In 1931 these amounted to 481,000,000 roubles. In 1932 to only 324,000,000 roubles and for the first half of 1933 to under 99,000,000 roubles.

A Legend Of Modern Hongkong

ILLITERATE LORE

"Now these are the words of the people and well learned in the wisdom of the ancients."

"It is recorded in the legends and it has been seen by all believers that a lion and a unicorn, so-called by the Western people, took up their abode one time long ago on a high building which was called Tai Wai Tong and was the City Hall of the foreign devils."

"And it was known among the ancients that this strange figure was the Flying Horse and that it would bring good fortune to the people and protect them. They therefore held it in great respect and honour and the country people made pilgrimages to see it and to show it to their children."

"There came a time when the Flying Horse became voracious and at night rushed down from his high place and devoured the unfortunate walkers in Statue Square. This happened for many months and the belly of the beast was fed by many people, and it was not safe to walk alone at night there."

"On a certain night the Wong Han, the great Queen Victoria stepped down from her statue and drove the beast back with a great sceptre. Then a chain was put round the neck of the Flying Horse and it could not get away."

"The simple folk of the country were again able to come and look at it without fear."

"Now it has happened that the Tai Wai Tong has been pulled down by the Western People and the Flying Horse has gone away."

"It is written in the book of wisdom of the Elders that it is bad to change Fung Shui. The Western people act in goomancy but we know it as the science of lines and places, which should never be changed. Since the day when the Flying Horse went away there is something not good there. It is a hoodoo, say the people who live there and they are afraid."

that Britain's denunciation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement last April has been the chief obstacle to her trade with Russia but they say that when a new agreement is concluded Britain's proximity and the lower labour costs compared with those prevailing in the United States should give her a fair share of this Soviet's purchases.

Washington experts are said to calculate that future American sales to Russia should be at least 270,000,000 a year.

Russia's debt to the United States is conservatively estimated at $100,000,000.

No loan issues between Russia and America are generally expected although Russia recently was seeking credits in America for about $30,000,000 for purchases of machinery.—Reuter.

THE DRUG OF DICTATORSHIPS

MR. THOMAS'S BROADCAST

EMPIRE'S PLACE IN THE SUN

London, Oct. 26.

A warm criticism of dictatorship was made by the Secretary of State for the Dominions during a broadcast address to-night upon the Empire in world politics.

Mr. J. H. Thomas said: "The cause of peaceful co-operation between nations has just received a strong blow. It is not a knock-out blow. The world can and will recover from it."

But how best can we help towards this recovery? World-wide co-operation is, for the moment, in great difficulties. But there is in the world a group of nations and peoples, the British Empire, covering between them more than a quarter of the earth's surface and including nearly a quarter of the human race, in which co-operation has not only not failed but is living and growing.

FOREIGN POLICY.

Relations between other nations and peoples are based fundamentally on a desire to avoid war.

It is to that end that almost the whole of their foreign policy is directed.

It was with that object that the League of Nations was created. The acts of their Governments are wise or foolish as they diminish or increase the dangers of war.

The Governments of the British Empire, on the contrary, start from the assumption that war between them is inconceivable. We begin where the others leave off.

POSITIVE ENDS.

We can direct our energy to the positive end of achieving good and not merely to the negative end of avoiding evil. And as a result, we can afford, not merely in our relations with one another, but in our relations with the rest of the world to seek other than purely selfish ends.

The real origin of this positive co-operation is an inherent love of personal liberty and self-government in the nations which make up the Empire.

It is no mere chance that at a time when Democratic Government is rapidly disappearing elsewhere, within British Empire it was never firmly rooted than it is today.

DRUGGED NATIONS.

Dictatorships necessarily look inwards. A nation which has yielded up its liberty must be kept drugged lest it rebel and the easiest drug of all to administer is a strong dose of selfish national conceit. Democracy labours under no such necessity. Mr. Thomas expressed the belief that imperial co-operation was the explanation of the fact that, relatively to the rest of the world, the British Commonwealth had suffered less during the world economic crisis than had other nations.

WORST OVER.

There were real and hopeful signs that the worst was past and nowhere were those signs more numerous than in the British Empire. He cited the improvement in employment and in trade which have taken place in Britain and the Dominions and referred to the extension of the principle of co-operation in the cases of the recent wheat agreement and the declaration of Monetary and Economic Policy.

He believed that these would lead to other and similar measures by which the hopeless lack of co-ordination between the producer and the consumer which more than any other factor had brought the world to the verge of ruin might be regulated and controlled.—British Wireless.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

SYNOPSIS

Leonard Sefton, visiting Cravenley, discovers the Hotel seaside resort exalted over the disappearance of the proprietor of the Hornet Hotel. The story of the missing man's daughter, Jessica Pyne, intrigues him and he decides to stay till the mystery has been solved. A mysterious stranger, known to have visited the hotel, and to have spoken to a servant named Luigi, is found dead at the foot of the cliffs. When assistance is brought, however, the body is no longer there. The boy's story of the finding of the body is confirmed by tracks leading from the hotel. Luigi denies having seen him. Later on, playing a bunch, Sefton decides to visit a shipwreck across the bay. Gerald Haines, one of the hotel guests, insists, on accompanying him. When on board they are started by a strange cry. Sefton also hears sounds of breathing behind a locked door aboard, but says nothing to Haines for fear of alarming her, and takes her back to the hotel. There when he decided to question Luigi again, it is discovered that the Italian has disappeared. Miss Pyne tries to persuade him to call in the police, but he thinks otherwise. While they are talking, they hear a cry from the beach.

CHAPTER X

"The Contents of a Shed"

At first he could distinguish nothing, for the tangled tree trunks and the bunches of stubble made confusing back patches in the fading light, but soon he noticed that one of the black patches was swaying to and fro, and was of human, not vegetable, origin.

"Do you see anything?" asked Jessica's anxious voice, over his shoulder.

"Yes, I do," he replied. "Somebody's down there."

The cry rose again, and this time it was unmistakable.

"Eli!" yelled the swaying black patch. "Oli! Eli!"

"Good Lord, it's Jim!" exclaimed Leonard. Making a cup with his hands, he called back, softly but resolutely.

"All right, Jim! Hold on! I'm coming."

A faint gulp responded.

"Mr. Sefton—be careful!" gasped Jessica, as Leonard began to lower himself over the edge. "If anything happened to you—"

"It won't," he assured her. "I've spent three holidays in Switzerland, and this won't worry me. Don't be alarmed."

She longed to stay and watch the descent, feeling that the moment she took her eyes off him he would fall, but instead she turned and ran to the shed, which was only about twenty yards off. Reaching the shed, she seized a coil of rope from a stout hook, and returning to the lily-pond she made one end fast round the trunk of a tree.

Then she hastened to the edge again, and looked over, her heart sick with fear. But a little cry of gladness escaped her as she saw that Leonard was climbing down carefully and steadily, while the little black patch was still swinging and swaying below him.

"Mr. Sefton!" she called.

"Yes?" he called back.

"I've got a rope. One end's tied to a tree. I'm going to throw the other end down."

"Well done! But wait a second now!"

She threw the rope, and he caught it.

"Well done!" he said, again.

"I'll have that boy safe in a jiffy."

Jim was not far below. He was, as a matter of fact, only a third of the way down the cliff, but when Leonard reached him, he found that the boy was hanging over a jutting branch at a spot where the sea was almost immediately beneath his swaying form, while one foot had become wedged in a hole.

"Hang on, old chap!" cried Leonard, encouragingly. "You'll soon be on the top, blacking boots again."

If Jim smiled, only the ocean saw it, for nothing else was in front of his face; but it is doubtful whether Jim did smile. He was far too uncomfortable.

A few moments later, he felt hands groping at his foot. There was a sudden, shooting wrench of pain, and then the foot was free. A strong arm encircled him. The sea changed its position below him, and disappeared. For a second or two, Jim frankly blubbered.

But he desisted tears. He thought nothing of boys who cried. When he discovered, therefore, that he was safe, he grinned fiercely and pretended that the whole thing was immense fun. He became so light-headed, in fact, that Leonard had to speak to him sharply to get him to behave rationally at all.

"I comes down arter it, yer see," bubbled Jim.

"I'm sure you did," replied Leonard, "but we'll talk about that later. Now just cling on to me until we reach that rope that's hanging above us. See it? Good. Steady, now!"

They reached the rope, and Leonard tied it round the boy's body. Then, by careful stages, they ascended to the top, finally assisted over the edge by eager hands. A minute went by, for the regaining of breath. Then Leonard turned to Jim and said:

"Now tell us how you got into that most extraordinary position! Did you fall over, Jim—or what?"

"It was the note-book, sir," replied Jim. "Yessir, I tracked it."

"What—you tracked it to the cliff?" exclaimed Leonard.

"Yessir. It was like this. When I leaves yer I see, Loojy's took it. That's yot 't is. Loojy. 'Cos 'e saw me writin' in it yesterday, and 'e wanted to 'ave a look, but I ses, 'No, Loojy, it's privit, and 'e gets cross. So it was a easy bet 'e'd slipped it from my pocket, so I goes to find 'im, but 'e wan't nowhere, so I ses to meself, 'Oli, right, Loojy, yours is size seven, so I'll 'ave yer. And I tracks 'is steps from the back door and along the path wot comes 'ere, but I loses 'em on the grass, but I sees 'em again along another path and tracks 'em to the shed. But 'e ain't there, and I comes back 'ere agin, and lookin' over the edge there's my note-book."

Jim paused for breath, and Jessica asked, after a glance at Leonard:

"Do you mean, Jim, that your book was lying down the cliff?"

"Yes, miss," answered Jim. "I sees it there. And I climbs down arter it, but I slips, and just as I'm bound down to pick it up, I slips agin, and the book goes into the sea, and golly I thort I was goin' in arter it. But I 'its a tree, and me foot gets caught, and then I starts 'ollerin'. And then Mr. Sefton comes along, and—and that's ori."

"Quite enough, too, I think," commented Leonard. "So your note-book is now in the sea, eh?"

"Yessir," answered Jim, in depressed tones.

"And—do you still think Luigi took it?"

"Yessir."

"But why should he throw it down the cliff?"

"Spits, sir. Bein' a surrenner."

"I see. And after the spite, fright? Is that your theory?"

"Well—e seems to 'ave milder 'isselt scarce, ain't 'e?"

"Oh, I dare say he'll soon come back again," remarked Leonard, lightly. "Meanwhile, don't worry, Jim. My advice to you is to take it easy for a bit—you've had a bit of a shaking—and then to go on with your work."

"Yessir," said Jim, and rose to his feet. He was a trifle unsteady, but he managed to draw himself up to his full height—which was not much—as he added, "I did find

HE LOST HIS TEETH—and HER!

*Pyorrhea has done
its deadly work*

ONE tragedy followed another. At first it didn't seem serious. She noticed his bleeding gums and told him not to neglect them, but he did nothing. They became sponge-like and tender. Next the teeth loosened at the very roots! Then one tooth fell out, another had to be pulled out. Now half of them are gone.

Pity him? Yes. But he could have avoided it, easily, just as you can avert such a tragedy. Every morning and evening, brush your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums. More than a tooth paste, this scientific dentifrice is prepared to prevent dread pyorrhea. It not only keeps your teeth clean and white, but prevents pyorrhea from attacking your gums, your teeth, and your health.

Forhan's for the Gums is the formula of E. J. Forhan, D.D.S., specialist in mouth diseases. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Astringent developed by Dr. Forhan and used by dentists throughout the world in the treatment of pyorrhea.

CINEMA SCREENINGS
NOTES SUPPLIED BY
THE THEATRES

In "Salvor's Luck," the new Fox film, opening at the King's Theatre to-day, James Dunn and Sally Eilers prove once again that they are the most vivid romantic team on the screen. The promise they gave in "Bad Girl," the picture that lifted them both to the cinematic skies is fulfilled in generous measure by their joint performance in "Salvor's Luck."

Dunn plays the role of a happy-go-lucky, always ready to fight but always naive in the ways of the world. Sally Eilers, as the girl who is responsible for it all, is the perfect foil. They meet quite accidentally, as is usually the case with a girl and a girl, and from then on the action is hectic and hilarious. Dunn recounts the attentions that other men pay to Miss Eilers, but the girl happens to be the kind that provokes attention. She just can't help it. After a series of misadventures, and a separation provided by both the United States Navy and a quarrel of their own, the two are re-united in a climax of rare entertainment. The supporting cast is excellent in a number of character portrayals, each of which is a gem. It includes Sammy Cohen, Frank Moran, Victor Jory, Esther Muir, Will Stanton, Curley Wright, Jerry Mandy, Lucien Littlefield, Buster Phelps and Frank Atkinson.

Raul Walsh, the guiding genius of "What Price Glory" and "The Cock-Eyed World," directed "Salvor's Luck" with the sure touch of a man who knows comedy when he sees it.

"The Sign of the Cross."

The day of the million-dollar spectacle-drama has returned. And, as far as Hollywood is concerned, prosperity has at last managed to get around that mythical corner. Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross," a spectacle of pagan Rome in the days of Nero, last of the Caesars, was the picture which did the trick. Like DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings," "The Sign of the Cross," which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre, was produced on a gigantic scale with thousands of players, elaborate settings and all the other features that run up bills, but stun audiences into awed delight in the magnificence they are beholding.

Nearly 7,500 persons made up the cast of "The Sign of the Cross." These include Frederic March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert, Charles Laughton, and others in leading roles, and thousands of "extras" who appear in Roman street scenes and in the arena in which Nero stages his bloody games.

Practically the entire Paramount ranch, comprising several score acres of land near Hollywood, was converted into a section of the City of Rome as it was in Nero's day. Streets, public squares and houses were duplicated from research based on several hundred years of excavations in the Imperial City. These settings were later destroyed by fire, when DeMille filmed Nero's burning of Rome.

An elaborate Roman bath, in which Miss Colbert, as the Empress, is photographed during the course of her ablutions, was constructed from blueprints and charts of baths uncovered in recent excavations.

Most elaborate of all the settings was a duplication of the Circus Maximus, a huge amphitheatre which for several hundred years was the scene of the bloody gladiatorial combats and chariot races in which the Roman populace delighted. A huge structure, the original Circus Maximus seated 150,000 persons. DeMille built a section of the grandstand large enough to seat the 7,500 extras, as well as the entire 33,000-square-foot arena in which the games were actually conducted.

"Westward Passage." Can a woman really love twice? Does a true first passion ever die completely? Those are the questions asked and answered in "Westward Passage," the Ann Harding starring picture at the Central Theatre to-day. In her superb performance as the love-tortured woman, Miss Harding is clearly pressed for honours by Laurence Oliver and Irving Pichel, who play husband number one and husband number two respectively.

"Westward Passage" was directed by Robert Milton and besides Miss Harding, Oliver and Pichel also in the cast are Zasu Pitts and Irene Purcell.

"I Loved You Wednesday." "I Loved You Wednesday," the Fox screen presentation of the successful Broadway play of the same name, with a cast of notable screen personalities, starts on Sunday at the King's Theatre. Henry King, director of "State Fair," is said to have duplicated his success with this film in which his all-star cast includes Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Miriam Jordan, Victor Jory and Laura Hope Crews.

The story revolves around the glamorous figure of a ballet dancer in Paris who, seeking to heal the wounds left by an unfortunate love affair, goes to South America to launch on a professional dancing career. There she meets a handsome engineer who falls in love with her. Their work separates them but they meet later in New York, each of them having a measure of fame. They are about to embark on a honeymoon aboard his yacht, when her Paris lover puts in a sudden appearance and complicates matters.

The manner in which four worldly-wise people meet this situation the dancer, her engineer-fiance, her former lover and his beautiful but neglected wife is said to be absorbing, and the denouement is reported as a distinct surprise.

The Midnight Follies of 1933-34. Few travelling companies can boast the clever array of talent to be seen at the King's Theatre on Sunday when the Midnight Follies of 1933-34 hold forth. Featured in the production is a beauty chorus outstanding in ability and appearance. These clever girls sing and dance themselves into favour immediately with their modern terpsichores.

Supporting artists are Frank Braidwood, the cowboy Baritone, in a real Western singing act. He has been a featured attraction in all the continental and American variety theatres, besides being the husband of Kitty Watson, of the famous Watson Sisters. Frank Braidwood is a musician singer and comedian and out the performance of Midnight Follies.

Betty and Arlene are star acrobatic dancing marvels and are making their very first appearance in the East direct from Continental successes. Their act is filled with thrills and excitement and exceeds anything yet offered in Adagio Dancing. They hold an audience spellbound for the time of their appearance.

Each week ending a clever little artist filled with sparkle and versatility is offering her sensational acrobatic snake Dance of Death with which she has made a tremendous success

EAST FULHAM

The results of other pending by-elections must be awaited before East Fulham will be revealed in true perspective. It seems to presage a storm that bodes no good to the National Government; other constituencies may expose it as a mere flash of summer lightning, although there are special features which suggest otherwise. It has never been a key seat in the general sense of the term, for the reason that it has always been regarded as safe for the Conservative. The late member in fact fought five successful elections there in the Conservative cause, and was only once seriously challenged by Labour and that in 1929 when the margin was more than 1,700 votes. The Labour Party at that time was at the peak of its popularity. To-day it is in the doldrums and yet comes through with a brilliant success in this supposedly safe Tory seat. The event, indeed, must be viewed more seriously than had East Fulham been a key seat, pending the lessons to be derived from other important by-elections to be held in the next week or two. Then only will it be possible to judge whether East Fulham marks the commencement of the break-up of the National Government. For that is the obvious inference from so startling a result. It looks suspiciously like the writing on the wall, even while it may be pointed out that somewhat similar suspicions have been entertained before. Beneath the surface, in fact, there have been frequent and clear signs of a tendency towards disintegration. Sir Herbert Samuel's defection was the first pointer. Latterly, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has been the subject of overt and covert attacks; in some quarters it has been quietly suggested that he be given a peerage and sent to the United States as Britain's Ambassador! His successor? Few have dared to make a suggestion but those who have considered the prospect of an end to the present regime and found it good, have not seriously entertained the idea that Mr. Baldwin should be the next occupant of No. 10, Downing Street. The fever of haste has been getting a grip upon England and Mr. Baldwin, who would be a stickler for Parliamentary methods, would merely constitute a brake upon the ambitious. British politics to-day warrant careful study. There are steadily increasing signs of impatience with the slow grinding Parliamentary system. Had the National

NOTES OF THE DAY

SHOP LOUD-SPEAKERS

A little more peace and quiet may be brought to the Chinese business quarter by the new anti-noise measure now before Legislative Council. It is designed to prohibit shop advertisement broadcasts, usually consisting of the amplification by radio appliances of a raucous voice, and it is a step that will be generally applauded. After the experience of the last twelve months, it would not be surprising to find the shopkeeper as pleased as anyone at the prohibition. The din in Queen's Road in the evening is nerve-racking for the passer-by. The effect upon the occupants of the shops concerned is better imagined than experienced.

IMITATION

The rapid growth of this "modern" method of salesmanship was inevitable once the originator had been allowed to let himself go the limit without police interference. Among the slightest acquaintance with Chinese business methods must have foreseen the cacophonous result. If initiative costs money it is wasteful, for if Mr. Pun Titi installs three loud-speakers in his counter, his rivals do likewise; if he puts in a loud-speaker and employs another loud-speaker to amplify his wares, there are rows of loud-speakers and a chorus of shouts in the twinkling of an eye. When all traders are similarly equipped, the new attraction is valueless; they might just as well have none; and when the "attraction" means a fearful noise and congestion in the streets, none should be permitted. But there is not likely to be any trouble about compliance with the new Ordinance when it is passed. If John Trader is satisfied that John Neighbour is also to give up the nightly blare, he will scrap his own instrument of nuisance with all good will and quiet contentment.

MR. HENRY WALLACE AND THE FARMER

Mr. Henry Wallace, the United States Secretary of Agriculture, is showing an understanding of war debts which does credit to himself and his position. In an article in the United States News on the 21st, he ignores deep-rooted prejudices and shows the farmers of the middle West and South, simply and convincingly where their interest lies. Capitol Hill shivers in its boots at the mild suggestion of looking into these debts. Ninety-nine per cent. of the congressional oratory on this subject has been exhortation of Europe. Even an Administration which takes "first things first" has recoiled from making suggestions to Congress about this politically dangerous question. The Secretary, therefore, when he makes a frank and earnest statement, does the world a good turn.

LOGIC OF THE ISSUE

If we wanted Europe to pay her debts to us, says Mr. Wallace, we should logically have encouraged to ship her goods here. If the agricultural South and the agricultural Midwest wanted to see these war debts and private debts repaid, then our farmers plainly should have clamoured for lower tariffs to let European goods in a clamour. Our refusal to behave as a creditor nation logically should have been particularly disastrous to the South and the middle West. Through the failure of the farmers to make the clamour, not to speak of the scorching criticisms they generally directed against Europe, they have rendered useless from 30,000,000 to 50,000,000 acres of their land. These acres being useless, it was necessary to devise some scheme for supporting agriculture until world markets are regained. The Agricultural Adjustment Act was the scheme hit upon and Mr. Wallace thinks it is not inconsistent with a programme for recovering lost markets. But to do that the United States must settle the war debt question. When will the Middle West see its own interest, discard prejudices, and permit the Government to make a rational settlement?

Government come back prepared in its third year to prosecute a vigorous policy—having got its second wind, so to speak—there would have been little diminution of its backing in the country. But the slum clearance policy is not enough, and the new unemployment insurance proposals are likely to arouse more censure than satisfaction. In England to-day there is a feeling that the National Cabinet having worked hard and succeeded so well for two years has exhausted itself and needs a rest. There is a complacency there; but also a criticism, and it is the sort of criticism that is most damaging.

ARE LANDLORDS TO BE PITIED?

THEIR TENANTS SAY "NO!"

By C. V. L. for the Telegraph

IF RECENT SIGNS are a true reflexion, the position of many landlords is parlous, and many tenants with an uncomfortably long memory, will be forgiven if they permit themselves a little gratification from a retrospective, if somewhat uncharitable, survey, of changing conditions.

That within the past few years there has been a decided drop in rents and incidentally, land values no-one needs be surprised; but apart from the economic slump now having every form of business in its grip, the principal factor for a greatly altered situation has been a mania for building. At a time of congestion and high rents this had appeared to be justified, but inevitably the law of supply and demand set in and competition has now become keen between landlords, many with empty houses on their hands which are liable to lead to forced sales or mortgage foreclosure.

THE EXALTED TENANT.

In the circumstances, into which he has been elevated, showered as he is with blandishments and generous terms, it is not to be wondered a new local character has been evolved: a tenant conscious of a new-found worth and in the easy and unprecedented position of more or less imposing his own bargain. One is asked to compare this with his status of say five years back, when he was far from admitting that his wishes had counted for much.

The facts admitted, it is then unnecessary farther to point out that making the most of a "chance in a life-time," he reckons little the general moan being uttered by landlords over a greatly reduced position, or the appeal for being saved in certain cases against the natural consequences of speculation excesses. To him these complaints have sounded strange against the historical background of the building boom.

The period is left not so far behind that he cannot recall when he and his kind were compelled by a high standard of rents to ally themselves into a Tenants' Protection Association, and Government were consistently invoked to set up a Fair Rents Board.

THE BOOT ON OTHER FOOT.

Yes, the boot is on the other foot, and tenants' memory an uncomfortably long one. Yet we still hear of landlords' foolish enough to close their eyes to realities and emulate Oliver Twist in another sense, by "asking for more" from their tenants. They are psychologically of a type hard to convince, as they seem to lose sight of the fact that what a small shopkeeper or wage earner five or ten years ago could then afford, is now being asked for in undue proportion to a reduced income. The consequence for these selfish property owners has been, as in one case we know of, that he loses his tenants. In the case singled out as one of many, the tenants left in a body, without being seriously inconvenienced by a wide selection of unoccupied tenements.

It would be interesting, as a record of this overbuilding, to have a complete return of the number of buildings, in many cases still unoccupied since their completion a year, or even two years ago. Signs of this arrested development are very apparent in Mongkok, Shamshui, Lai-chikok and other outlying districts, where as can well be imagined, a tenant may be welcomed on his own terms, if only to save the buildings from being piled to pieces by that creature as prominent as the ubiquitous white ant—the moving van which is not above tearing the very shutters from their hinges.

SHARE, AND SHARE ALIKE.

The present appeal for public relief is against a capacity tax on party-occupied buildings, and if confined there, will bring about no general disagreement. But in carrying it also to old buildings as appears to have been done, it has caused for a ready retort from tenants. It may sound harsh but it is not unfair to translate in the following terms: "it is just as well that these old houses remain empty; they are regular death traps in case of a fire." Tenants are understood to have pointed out in addition, that these old buildings, having yielded a sufficiently long return in rents, the present seems to be the ideal period for reconstruction and replacement by more suitable structures.

The day when a tenant is compelled to pay haat-kun (a premium sum literally translated as "shoe-money") to the landlord or his agent merely for the privilege of being allowed to move in, furthermore so that he can pay a high rent, is regarded as decidedly over.

The Colony's tenants who substantially constitute the public, may be forgiven a long memory, and an inability to see eye to eye with their landlords, much less to be prepared to back up their appeal.

When all is said and done, landlords have had their day, and in the present period are reaping the wind of their own sowing, while called upon to do no more than shouldering their fair share of a general depression that has affected everybody.

"Ring some more. I think they're just pretending they're not at home."

The Very Idea!

IF GOSSIP WE MUSH!

By Eddie "Queen" Kelly

SINCE he read the gossip page of a contemporary, Edward Kelly has decided that his talents as a humorist are simply wasted. As the husband of one of the biggest gossips in Hongkong, he considers that a little element of scandal and cackle should be introduced into "The Very Idea!" It follows.

THE WEEK IN HONGKONG

Out! What a busy week I'm having. I've hardly had time to go across to the Hongkong Hotel for a breather. I was just too, too thrilled at the thought that—would be with me for afternoon tea to-day, but one must put up with these disappointments in Hongkong.

THE SCOTTISH COMPANY

Wasn't it just too adorable the way the Scottish Company marched through the streets of Kowloon last week. I don't think men look handsome unless they have hairy legs, and no one can say that our Scotties are not good looking. They were dressed in a brightly coloured skirt which was cut in the latest style, with plaits at the back. Large chromium safety pins on the right side of the skirt set off the ensemble. How thrilling their little black velvet coats looked and I particularly admired Rusty Forsyth—the Glasgow boy on his lovely dark hair was the sweetest thing I have ever seen.

NAVY WEEK

Everybody in Hongkong is just simply in ecstasies about Navy Week. I was only speaking to Commodore Frank Elliott—don't you think he is just divine in this photograph, girls—about yesterday, when we were having a swig of rum aboard H.M.S. Tamar. But perhaps I shouldn't mention the Commodore in this Gossip Page. You know how we girls must be discreet where sailors are concerned.

AN ORDINARY RISK

Darlings, I must tell you about a joke I played on my wife last week. Very foolishly I left "Eve's" name and telephone number in my coat pocket overnight last Tuesday. "Edward," my wife asked next morning, "who is Eve and what does 24616 mean?" "Arabella," I replied, "why, didn't I tell you? 'Eve' is the name of a horse I backed at Happy Valley last Saturday. It paid a dividend of $200.10. 'Eve's' 24616? I must tell you what happened afterwards. When I went home that night, Arabella greeted me with 'Edward, that horse you backed on Saturday rang you up three times to-day!'"

MR. RUTTONJEE'S SECRET

I simply adore the way Mr. Ruttonjee makes beer. Next time I see him I must ask him for the recipe so that I can pass it on to you. Mr. Ruttonjee, who I think is one of the most handsome men in Hongkong, has a beautiful building out near the Ten Mile Beach. Everyone who visits the place looks so wonderfully happy and gay—it's a pity most of us cannot get away from the humdrum of the city more often to visit him.

THE FOOTBALL MATCH

I loved the Football last Saturday. I think it was just too divine! occasionally marvellous the way the Hongkong Club beat the Navy Fifteen. The spectators were very "select," the sailors all looking beautiful in their autumn rigouts. For the winning side, J. J. Ferguson looked chic in his blue and white sweater, with white knickers to match. Doc Selby had an exquisitely divine blue eye, which was caused by the elbow of a sailor.

MacWhirter and a Friend.

ST. ANDREW'S NIGHT

Of course, as you all know, our next big event in Hongkong is going to be St. Andrew's Ball. And now, dears, I'm going to let you in on a secret. Robert MacWhirter is secretly breeding a litter of haggis, and declares that he is going to put the "Once Over" all the competitors this year and carry off the prize. Speaking of Scotsmen, someone told me the other day that bagpipes weren't peculiar to Scotland. "They're just peculiar. But, after all, girls, we must forgive Scotch people their idiosyncrasies—there's short comings. MacWhirter and I are really warm pals (purely platonic, dears!) and I often abuse his kindness by pestering him for an advance in the middle of the month.

A HAPPY ENDING

And now, dears, before I finish, I must tell you about the story of the park-keeper's daughter, who

NAVY DAY PLANS

PROGRAMME FOR TO-MORROW

AMUSEMENT PARK FOR KIDDIES

To-morrow the Senior Service will be at Home in the Royal Naval Dockyard on the occasion of Navy Day.

From 1.30 p.m. until 6 p.m. the public will have the opportunity of inspecting the different types of naval craft, and watching an aerial display, while the kiddies will find everything to amuse them in an amusement park which is to be laid out on the football ground.

The first half of the programme will comprise crossing the Line on the West Wall East, destroyers in action in the Basin, a Howitzer display on the football ground, and crossing the Line on the West Wall East. An aircraft display will take place during the tea interval. Following tea a display will be given by the pipers from the 9th Jat Regiment, and "Retreat" will be played by the bands at 6.30 p.m.

Cinema performances are to take place in the Dockyard Garage, and naval divers can be seen at work in the North-east corner of the Basin. The amusement park will include an aerial railway, Aunt Sallics, chutes and a general playground for children.

Vessels which will be thrown open for inspection will be H.M.S. Eagle, H.M.S. Suffolk, six destroyers, one or two submarines and one of the river gunboats. While the public are waiting to go on board periodic talks on the capabilities of the submarine will be given by one of the submarine officers.

Teas will be served aboard the Tamar and the Eagle and other places in the Yard.

Music will be provided by military bands on the football ground and on the Dockyard wall in the south-east corner of the Basin, the band of H.M.S. Suffolk on the Tamar, the band of H.M.S. Berwick at the head of the dry dock and of H.M.S. Eagle in the hangar.

The public will not, under any circumstances, be permitted to take cameras into the Dockyard.

The price of admission ($1) covers entrance to the Dockyard, visits to H. M. Ships and views of all displays. No extra charge will be made except for refreshments, entrance to slide shows on the Dockyard Football Ground and for speed boat trips.

THE "BLUES"

REPEAT EXHIBITION YESTERDAY

Repeating by special request London's latest Blues, Mr. J. A. Andrew and Miss Ursula Preston yesterday entertained another huge crowd at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden.

The slow dance is rapidly becoming the favourite among local Chinese dancers and there was no mistaking the enthusiasm in their greeting of the demonstrators' exposition of the Blues, one of the most graceful of all dances.

This afternoon Mr. Andrew and Miss Preston make their final appearance at the Hotel tea dances, and a record crowd is anticipated.

To-morrow evening they open a season at the Peninsula Hotel, when in company with Don and Sally, they will give three numbers.

Their third number is to be a novelty dance, and although they are keeping its form a strict secret, I am in the position to reveal that it will be something worth while.—S.A.G.

SCHOOL AQUATICS

CENTRAL BRITISH SCHOOL HOLD ANNUAL EVENT

The annual swimming gala of the Central British School was held at the European Y.M.C.A. bath yesterday afternoon. Competition was keen, and the function was a decided success from the viewpoint both of the number of entrants and the keenness shown. The results gave the greatest aggregate of points to the Red House, which led by an extraordinarily large margin.

Following were the results:

Westinghouse
MASTER SERIES

Dual-automatic Refrigerators

Twelve years of painstaking research preceded the marketing of the now famous Westinghouse Dual-Automatic electric refrigerator. Westinghouse waited that long because it wanted to make sure that every detail in the refrigerator's construction was as perfect as human ingenuity and science could make it... the pains of trial and error were not inflicted upon the buyer... In its own extensive laboratories Westinghouse conducted its tests and gave to the public the most advanced refrigerator within the grasp of science.

Now, because in those same laboratories those same scientists have found new ways—WITHOUT ANY BASIC CHANGE—of giving you added beauty—affording you greater economy—increased ice-freezing capacity—at prices which set new standards of value—we are presenting the new MASTER SERIES dual-automatic Westinghouse refrigerators. Come in today... see these truly MASTER refrigerators.

out 'oo took it, sir, didn't it?" "I wouldn't go as far as that, Jim," returned Leonard, "but, anyway, you've made a good guess, and you've done the job I set you." On the point of departure, Jim enquired, "Ave I still gotter keep mum, sir?" "As a door-post," nodded Leonard. "And door posts, Jim, don't say a word to anyone." Jim smiled faintly, then jumped, as a new figure loomed near. But it was only Napoleon Truelove. It annoyed Jim, as he walked back to the hotel, to feel that he had jumped over such a trifle.

"Now, don't lam into me for belin' late," exclaimed Napoleon. "I spent ten minutes over that letter, and then I couldn't remember whether you said the lily-pond or the rose-garden. So I went to the rose-garden—my luck's always out—and bumped into Mr. Griddle." "I thought he was going to his room," interposed Jessica. "So did I," answered Napoleon. "In fact, it was rather funny. 'How's your headache?' I said to him, and he replied 'Written your letter?' Then we both laughed, though the Lord knows why!" "He didn't believe you'd written a letter?" asked Leonard.

"He had to believe it," retorted Napoleon, "cos I took it out of my pocket and asked if he'd come to the pillar-box with me."

Leonard smiled, and looked at Jessica. She answered his smile. Napoleon Truelove was proving himself to be quite an astute policeman, after all.

"Finish your story," said Leonard. "Did you go to the pillar-box?"

"Yes. And posted the letter. That's what made me so late. It was to myself in London. I expect it will be redirected on here. 'Hallo,' I said in it. 'How are you?' When I get it I shall reply, and tell myself how I am."

Jessica burst into a laugh, and Leonard's heart warmed to his new recruit. It was the first time he had seen Jessica laugh like that; and it made him long to see her laugh again.

For not only was Jessica's laugh a happy laugh (and all laughter is not that), but it made the hoarser happy. A natural spring in her nature, temporarily clogged, had temporarily flowed again.

"But I'm still waiting to learn whether Mr. Griddle accompanied you to the letter-box," remarked Leonard.

"He did," nodded Napoleon. "Did he see the name and address on the envelope?"

Napoleon chuckled. "There is a line in one of Henry Arthur Jones's priceless plays that runs, 'I may be an ass, but I'm not a silly ass.' Well, I'm not a silly ass. Mr. Griddle didn't see the name and address, and if he suspects me it can only be because he has a nasty, suspicious nature. But look here, I say! What am I doing all this for? It's time you told me, isn't it?"

Napoleon's eyes grew wide with amazement when he heard all Leonard had to tell, the last part of what he heard being related to him after Jessica Pyne had returned to the hotel. Under the pretext of colling up the rope and putting it away in the shed, the two men stayed out a few minutes longer, and it was during those few minutes that Leonard briefly outlined the incidents that had occurred at the wreck, and how he proposed to deal with those incidents.

"It's going to be some risk, isn't it?" queried Napoleon, when Leonard had finished. "That is, I mean—if there's anything in it at all—and those sounds weren't imagination."

"If they were imagination," responded Leonard, calmly, "then there'll be no risk."

"H'm. But—you don't think they were imagination, do you?"

"I don't. But they may have been."

"And if they weren't imagination—"

"It's absolutely vital that the all too solid facts shall be dealt with. I'd rather deal with it alone—"

"Why?"

"Perhaps," smiled Leonard, "because of the risk. But a personal risk is one thing, and a risk of the failure of justice being done is another. Which is why, Mr. Truelove, I suggest enlisting your assistance in the manner aforementioned."

Napoleon grinned. "Think we'd better drop the 'Mr.' somehow, if we're going to die together," he proposed. "You may call me anything you like bar 'Nappy,' which is strictly reserved for a Certain Person. But look here, I say, isn't it rather priceless that you should pick upon a fellow like me, when you could have selected—"

"I'm sure I could have selected no one better," interposed Leonard. "And, if we make fools of ourselves—"

"It will be nice and natural that I should be one of the fools," Napoleon finished for him. "Doubtless, I'm sure! Anything for the sake of the dear little red herring. But look here, I say—what about the boat?"

"I know where there's one," replied Leonard. "Leave that part of it to me, and trot along and do your part. But just above the shed door open first, will you, so I can chuck in this rope?"

"Not necessary," murmured Napoleon. "It's opening all of itself."

The door was pushed wide, and Luigi stepped out.

DRAFT ORDINANCE NOT PROCEEDED WITH.

It was announced yesterday that the Government are not prepared to proceed with the draft Bill of the Foreshore and Seabed Ordinance at the present time.

The Hongkong Foreshore and Sea Bed Works Ordinance met with local opposition on the question of private rights, compensation and the power of the authorities to override private rights.

The draft Bill, together with a letter of protest from the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce, was considered by the Home authorities, and on July 10 the matter was ventilated by a question in the House of Commons.

The Ordinance was sent Home in May.

The Colonial Secretary's Office stated at the time that the chief purpose of the ordinance was to permit the Government to resume marine land for public purposes without being compelled to promote a special Bill for each project.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

YOUNG CHINESE WOMAN
JUMPS FROM FERRY

A young Chinese woman, travelling third class aboard the Star Ferry "Polar Star", attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by jumping into the harbour. The incident occurred about 3.20 p.m. while the ferry was journeying from Kowloon to Hongkong.

Following the splash, an alarm was raised, and the woman was rescued by three Chinese sailors, of the ferry crew. A police launch drew up in mid-stream, came alongside, the ferry and took her on board to Kowloon.

The woman, Li Ngan, stated to be about 25 years of age, was removed to the Kowloon Hospital Inter.

CANTON-SHANGHAI
AIR MAIL.STORM COMPELS PLANE TO LAND AT FOCHOW

Shanghai, Oct. 26. The Sikorsky amphibian plane, Canton, inaugurating the Canton-Shanghai air mail service, on Saturday, was compelled to land at Fochow.

The plane will resume its flight from Fochow to-morrow morning, arriving here about noon.—Reuter.

The new service is being conducted by Pacific-American Airways, a subsidiary of the famous Pan-American Airways Company. Several survey flights were made by Mr. H. M. Bixby, vice-president of the company.

Later, when certain conditions are fulfilled, the service will be extended to Hongkong and Manila.

No passengers, it is understood, were carried on yesterday's flight, as it was not the intention of the company to carry anything but air mail for the first 80 days.

TRAMWAYS BLOCKED

ANOTHER "BANK COLLAPSE"

WARNING GIVEN IN TIME

A resounding crash about 5 o'clock this morning signalled the second serious collapse of part of the frontage of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank now in the course of demolition on the Des Voeux Road side.

As a result of the collapse, telephone communication between several places was cut off, and the tram service was disorganised for nearly two hours.

A long line of trams, reaching nearly to the Soldiers' Club, was the unusual sight which greeted early morning pedestrians.

A couple of women had a narrow escape from death, a large piece of masonry falling within five feet of her.

Luckily, signs of the imminence of a crash were observed by a police sergeant, who happened to be on the scene. He gave immediate warning and the workmen quickly scrambled to safety. Less than five minutes after the warning the collapse occurred.

RICE INCIDENT AT AMOY

JAPANESE DEMAND CARGO RELEASE

Amoy, Oct. 27.
Another dispute involving Japanese residents has developed as the result of a consignment of rice belonging to a Japanese importer, being detained by the Tax Bureau on the ground that the importer refused to pay the scheduled rate of tax.

The Japanese Consul at Amoy requested the release of the consignment of rice on Wednesday but the authorities have refused to comply.—Central News.

FUNING BANDITS SURRENDER

WALLED CITY NOW IN POLICE HANDS

Tientsin, Oct. 27.
The Chinese police forces besieging the walled city of Funing have at last compelled the bandits in the city to surrender without further resistance.

A delegation of the bandits held a parley with the Government officials outside the city on Wednesday and long discussions resulted in terms of agreement for surrender.

The city gates were reopened yesterday morning.—Central News.

The arrival of H.M.T. Neuralla has been further delayed and instead of arriving this afternoon she is not expected until to-morrow at daybreak.

WAYLAIED ON WAY HOME

SHOT IN THE ARM: CHEST
GRAZED

I.R.A. SUSPECTED

LEADER OF MCCORMICK'S DEVILS

Belfast, Oct. 27.
Major J. H. McCormick D.S.O., the Member of Parliament for the St. Anne's Division of Belfast, had narrow escape last night when he was ambushed by two gunmen.

They opened fire on him as he was on his way home from Parliament House. One bullet grazed his chest and another struck him in the arm. He beat his assailants off, however, escaping with comparatively minor injuries.

Major McCormick was famous during the war as the leader of McCormick's Devils. He personally raised the Corps of Western Cowboys that earned this nickname and took them to France with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

As a lieutenant he led half a Brigade of Infantry composed of his own battalion, the 27th, City of Winnipeg, and the 23rd, in the final assault of Lens in 1917 and was recommended for the V.C. He was wounded five times during the war.

I.R.A. OPPONENT.
He held the post of Administrative Commissioner under the Northern Ireland Government during and after the Irish Treaty Truce period.

It is thought that the attack on him last night was the result of a speech in the Irish Parliament last week in which he strongly denounced the Irish Republican Army.—Reuter.

ACTIVE STOCK MARKETS

DAY FINISHES ON VERY STRONG TONE

London, Oct. 26.
The Stock Markets were very strong and active during the day, although some profit taking occurred at the close.

War Loan finished at 100.1/16 ex-dividend, and the funding loan 4 per cent. at 111 1/2. Railways were higher on the day. Indian mines were strong, and International Rubber, Tin, Copper and Oil were very firm.—British Wireless.

TYPHOON HITS APARRI

HEAVY DAMAGE REPORTED

Aparri, Oct. 24.
A typhoon swept over Aparri last night, causing damages on nipa and bamboo houses and destroying electric wires, telephone lines and fences. On the eastern end of the seawalls of the town, shores were eroded by waves.

The appearance of the typhoon was unexpected as there was no previous notice from local weather observers.

It lasted from 9 o'clock in the night to 4 o'clock in the morning, destroying considerable property.

DRIZZLE PROBABLE

The Royal Observatory reports that the anticyclone is now centred over South Manchuria. It has regained intensity and covers the greater part of China and Japan.

The typhoon is situated about 100 miles east of Tourane, moving westward.

Local forecast:—Northeast winds, fresh; cloudy, probably some drizzle.

Lord Brownlow has caused a sensation in European art circles by declaring that he possesses the original Mona Lisa by Leonardo da Vinci, the painting at Louvre being a copy.

FRENCH CABINET RESHUFFLED

LAST-MINUTE CHANGES

LARGELY RADICAL MINISTRY

Paris, Oct. 26.

M. Albert Sarraut has completed the task of forming his Cabinet and will submit the names to President Lebrun shortly.

A number of Ministers in the Herriot Cabinet of 1932 have been recalled, several of the leading figures in the Daladier Government retain their posts. New names are few.

A number of last-minute changes were made causing some confusion. It was first believed that M. Sarraut had decided to couple the portfolio of the Interior with the Premiership instead of the Navy Office, M. Jacques Stern being brought in as Minister of Marine, but it was learned later that M. Stern was replacing M. Rio and that M. Bonnevay and M. Palmade were also being replaced.

The members of the Cabinet now are mainly Radical with slight extensions on either wing.

NEW CABINET.

The new list of Ministers follows:—
M. Sarraut, Prime Minister and Minister of Marine (Navy).
M. Paul-Boncour, Minister for Foreign Affairs.

M. Daladier, Minister for War.
M. Bonnet, Minister of Finance.

M. Queuille, Minister of Agriculture.

M. Laurent Eynac, Minister of Commerce.

M. Paganon, Minister of Public Works.

M. Frot, Minister of Labour.

M. de Monzie, Minister of Education.

M. Daladier, Minister of Justice.

M. Pierre Cot, Minister for Air.

M. Jacques Stern, Minister of Merchant Marine.

M. Labonne, Minister of Health.

M. Chautemps, Minister of Interior.

M. Pietri, Minister for the Colonies.

M. Abelgardey, Minister of the Budget.—Reuter.

BLOW LAMP EXPLOSION

LEAGUE HUMORISTS

MR. LESTER'S DANZIG APPOINTMENT

POLES' OBJECT AND GIVE WAY

Geneva, Oct. 26.

A curious series of incidents occurred before Mr. Sean Lester, the permanent Irish Free State delegate to the League of Nations, was appointed High Commissioner to Danzig.

The first incident occurred when the Polish delegate strongly objected to the selection of any representative of a great Power, or even of one of the British Dominions.

Sir John Simon, speaking next, advanced unusual arguments as to the qualifications for Mr. Lester's appointment.

Sir John said the Irish delegate had been in an English gaol and had been a Sinn Féiner.

COURAGE AND TACK.

Continuing, the British Foreign Secretary paid a tribute to Mr. Lester's remarkable courage, independence and tact since his association with the League in tackling refugee questions. He concluded by testifying to the respect and admiration the League Council felt for him.

M. Paul-Boncour (France) persuaded the Poles to withdraw their objections, upon which Mr. Lester withdrew his candidature, saying he did not desire the appointment in such circumstances. His objections, however, were finally overcome.—Reuter.

THE PANTER INCIDENT

NO REPLY TO THE PROTEST

ARRESTED

Munich, Oct. 27.

Josef Ackerman, a well-known German journalist, has now been arrested by the Bavarian authorities, and it is suspected that the action arises from the Daily Telegraph's account of the Kelheim meeting.

It is believed that the police suspect Herr Ackerman of supplying information to Mr. Noel Pantier, the Telegraph's correspondent, who was arrested on Tuesday.

Germany has not replied to the strong protest of the British Ambassador against the arrest and the refusal of the Bavarian authorities to grant the British Consul-General in Munich access to Mr. Pantier.

It is notable that no charge has yet been formulated against Mr. Pantier, although he is being entirely denied legal assistance.—Reuter.

TAX ON FOREIGN RICE

KWANGSI PUT IT AT $20 A PICUL

Wuchow, Oct. 25.

The Kwangsi Government considers it necessary to institute a higher customs rate on foreign rice than that imposed by Kwangtung Government, because Kwangsi is essentially an agricultural province and has a heavy surplus of rice every year.

The Finance Department has authorised the various local tax bureaux of the province to put into immediate enforcement a special tax of $20 (national currency) on each picul of imported rice.—Central News.

A woman of Yan Tin Village, in the Autau district of the Northern Territories, committed suicide yesterday by throwing herself down a well. Vexation following a domestic quarrel is said to have prompted the act.

DEBUCHI RECALLED

MAY NOT GO BACK TO AMERICA

TOO MILD FOR THE ARMY

Tokyo, Oct. 25.

The Foreign Office announced yesterday that the Japanese Ambassador, Mr. Debuschi, had been instructed to return from Washington to consult with the new foreign minister, Mr. Hirota.

"Whether he returns to Washington depends upon Mr. Debuschi's own desire," said the spokesman. "Meanwhile the question of his successor has not been considered."

He declared that Mr. Debuschi had been asking permission for some time to return to Tokyo and that the recall was not connected with the prospects of American recognition of Soviet Russia or other recent diplomatic developments.

In Washington, Mr. Debuschi said he would sail from San Francisco with his family about the middle of November and expressed the opinion himself that he probably would remain in Japan. He said he did not know whether another post would be offered him.

It has been known for some time that the war party, in control of the Tokyo government, felt that Mr. Debuschi was not aggressive enough in the negotiations in Washington on the Manchurian dispute with China, and there have been frequent rumours that he would be recalled.

Mr. Debuschi has been Japan's representative in Washington since 1928, and for four years previous to that was vice-minister of Foreign Affairs at Tokyo.

PAN-AMERICAN FRANCHISE

MANILA ISSUE NOT SETTLED

Manila, Oct. 25.

The application of the Pan American Airway for a franchise will be taken up by the senate either to-day or to-morrow. It was declared in the legislative building yesterday that whether the legislature approves or disapproves the application it will not act on it.

The hitch in the application of the Pan American Airway is said in some legislative circles to be in its request to operate a radio station in the Philippines to guide its flying ships. Some members of the legislature yesterday were doubtful as to whether this request would not complicate matters as regards radio stations now operating in the Islands.

The aircraft carrier, H.M.S. Eagle, arrived at Junk Bay this morning. During the day she will carry out exercises and will be brought alongside to-morrow at about noon. To-morrow morning she will carry out manoeuvres for the benefit of a number of prominent local residents who will be taken out on destroyers.

WILD WEATHER

CLIFF COLLAPSE
AT LOWESTOFT

NORTH SEA AT ITS WORST

London, Oct. 26.

The wildest weather of the year was experienced during last night and throughout the whole of the day in the North Sea and along England's East Coast.

A terrific gale blew steadily, accompanied by hail, heavy rain, thunder and lightning.

Winds of over seventy miles an hour were recorded at many places, while an abnormally high tide was accompanied by heavy seas, battering the coasting and sweeping across the esplanades at Lowestoft, Yarmouth and Scarborough.

Hundreds watched the fury of the storm from the seashore.

A large fall of cliffs occurred near Lowestoft in the course of today, doubtless the result of the heavy pounding to which the base had been subjected during the gale.

The North Sea steamer services were subjected to considerable delay, services serving Holland experiencing dangerously rough passages.—British Wireless.

ROOSEVELT MONETARY PROGRAMME

Pleased With Popular Reception

Washington, Oct. 26.

President Roosevelt is pleased with the popular reception of his monetary programme.

Wall Street is a trifle querulous that President Roosevelt does not propose to announce any definite step in his new programme in advance.

It is officially emphasised that President Roosevelt does not wish to place undue emphasis on the foreign exchange factor in the monetary problem. He does not regard American domestic policy as being involved in the foreign exchange question.—Reuter.

REASSURING RISE

New York, Oct. 26.

Important banking quarters regard the increase in gold prices as a reassuring sign of President Roosevelt's intention to avoid drastic inflation.—Reuter.

Mr. Roger Babson, business analyst and forecaster, declared in comment on President Franklin Roosevelt's monetary policy, that the President appears to be riding two horses in opposite direction.

He said one cannot raise prices without undermining the dollar.

RECORD NUMBER OF CASES

LIST OF 70 FACES
MAGISTRATE

A record number of cases, totaling nearly seventy, were entered on the charge sheets by Sub-Inspector Smith, who was I.O.D. at Central Police Station charge room, yesterday. The cases were dealt with by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning.

The overflow of prisoners resulted from three hawkers' raids and eight opium raids carried out by Police yesterday, besides the raids performed by the Revenue Department. There were no less than 35 cases concerning hawkers, and 10 opium cases on the list. Of the hawkers' offences, sixteen were charged with hawking without licences.

THIS IS A TEST FOR A TOOTHBRUSH. The arch that your thumb and forefinger make is similar to the arch of your tooth. Only the brush that fits the one can fit the other. AND ONLY TEK'S CAN DO IT.

Tek fits its full face into every curve of the arch—upper and lower. Relieved of the usual load of useless bristles, Tek's short head reaches everywhere, cleans everywhere. In its rapid passes Tek gives the gums a mild massage—gentle to begin with, until they become firm and strong and of a healthy colour. But only Tek can do it, because of its shape and size. Get used to Tek and you'll use no other. Sold surgically clean in a sealed carton. See that the carton is unbroken. Six colours. Hard or medium, also extra hard (unbleached).

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Here's a Pie You Don't Need to Bake!

LUSCIOUS PEACH DESSERT MADE WITH LEMON, MILK, VANILLA WAFERS

A pie that comes from the ice box instead of the oven is the delicious peach dessert pictured here.

A delicious pie which doesn't require any baking is the very newest contribution to the art of cooking.

Now that summer is on the wane, your family is going to expect more wholesome desserts than you served during the hot months. By pooling your resources, you can give them the sweets they crave and, at the same time, spare yourself much work in preparation.

There is hardly a man or child in America who doesn't love pie for dessert. You can serve it with a minimum of effort simply by letting your ice box do most of the work.

Now that peaches are in season, why not make the most of them? Here's the way to make a grand peach pie which doesn't have to be cooked:

For the pie filling, blend one and one-third cups of sweetened condensed milk (one can) with one-quarter cup of lemon juice, the grated rind of one lemon and one cup of sliced peaches.

Since the condensed milk contains milk and sugar which are already boiled down to perfect smoothness, it will thicken with the lemon juice almost instantly.

For the uncooked pie crust, roll enough vanilla wafers to make three-quarters of a cup of crumbs. Cut vanilla wafers in halves and stand them around the edge of the pie plate. Cover the bottom of the plate with crumbs and fill the spaces between the wafers.

Four in the filling and cover with whipped cream which has been sweetened with two tablespoons of confectioner's sugar.

Put the whole thing in the ice box so that it will be thoroughly chilled when you are ready to serve it.

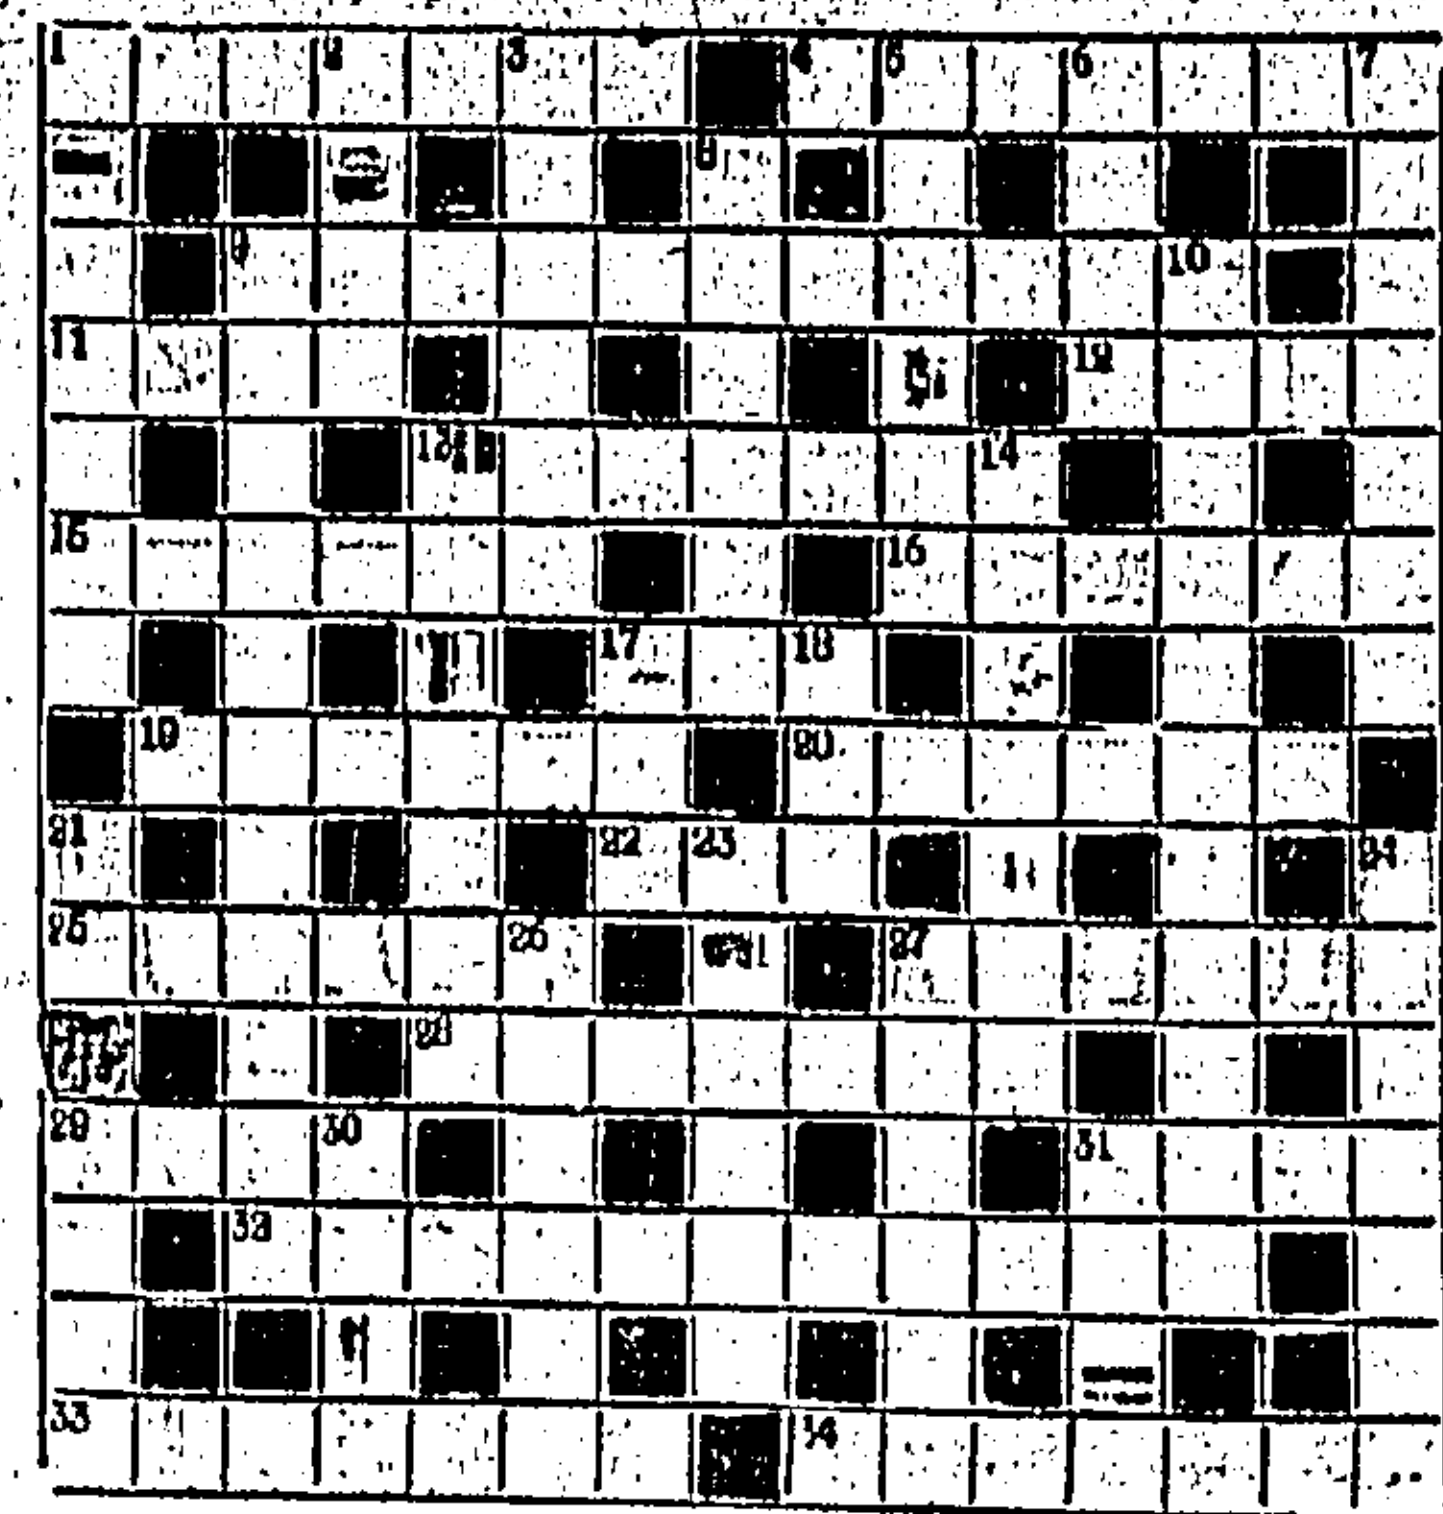

Garnish the top of the pie with slices of fresh peaches just before you are ready to take it to the table.

Football at Yale, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech or Southern California always finds the Chic twins looking their best. This sketch shows them in tweed suits of maroon with a sporting touch.

As usual, the Chic twins give you something to cheer about. This model with a swagger coat and a straight line, two-piece skirt, in tweed or novelty wools, will find you perfectly garbed for the pigskin parades. Designed in six sizes: 14, 16, 18 and 20 (with corresponding bust measure 33½, 35, 36½ and 38) and 40 and 42—also 16 requires 4½ yards of 54-inch material. The coat alone requires 2½ yards, and the skirt 1½ yards. To line the coat requires 3½ yards of 36-inch material, and to finish with braid or binding requires 4½ yards. The tie, 2½ yards.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

A Summer Mystery BY J. JEFFERSON FARJEON

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard Sefton, visiting Greenwell, discovers the hotel's terrible secret: the disappearance of the proprietor of the Marmalade Hotel. The story of the missing man's daughter, Jessica, is told. Leonard and he decide to stay till the mystery has been solved. A mysterious stranger, known to have visited the hotel, and to have spoken to a servant named Luigi, is found dead at the foot of the cliff. When assistance is brought, however, the body is no longer there. The boy's story of the finding of the body is confirmed by tracks leading from the hotel. Luigi denies having seen him. Later on, playing a bunch, Sefton decides to visit a shipwreck across the bay. Deryl Haines, one of the hotel guests, insists on accompanying him. When on board they are started by a strange cry. Sefton also hears sounds of breathing behind a locked door aboard, but says nothing to Deryl for fear of alarming her, and takes her back to the hotel. There when he decided to question Luigi again, it is discovered that the Italian has disappeared. Miss Price tries to persuade him to call in the police, but he thinks otherwise. While they are talking, they hear a cry from the beach.

CHAPTER X.

"The Contents of a Shed."

At first he could distinguish nothing for the tangled tree trunks and the bunches of stubble made confusing back patches in the fading light, but soon he noticed that one of the black patches was swaying to and fro, and was of human, not vegetable, origin. "Do you see anything?" asked Jessica's anxious voice, over his shoulder. "Yes, I do," he replied. "Somebody's down there." The cry rose again, and this time it was unmistakable. "Elpi!" yelled the swaying black patch. "Oll! Elpi!"

"Good Lord, it's Jim!" exclaimed Leonard. Making a cup with his hands, he called back, softly but resolutely.

"All right, Jim! Hold on! I'm coming."

A faint gulp responded.

"Mr. Sefton—be careful!" gasped Jessica, as Leonard began to lower himself over the edge. "If anything happened to you—"

"It won't," he assured her. "I've spent three holidays in Switzerland, and this won't worry me. Don't be alarmed."

She longed to stay and watch the descent, feeling that the moment she took her eyes off him he would fall, but instead she turned and ran to the shed, which was only about twenty yards off. Reaching the shed, she seized a coil of rope from a stout hook, and returning to the lily-pond she made one end fast round the trunk of a tree.

Then she hastened to the edge again, and looked over, her heart sick with fear. But a little cry of gladness escaped her as she saw that Leonard was climbing down carefully and steadily, while the little black patch was still swinging and swaying below him.

"Mr. Sefton!" she called.

"Yes?" he called back.

"I've got a rope. One end's tied to a tree. I'm going to throw the other end down."

"Well done! But wait a second now!"

She threw the rope, and he caught it.

"Well done!" he said, again.

"I'll have that boy safe in a jiffy."

Jim was not far below. He was, as a matter of fact, only a third of the way down the cliff, but when Leonard reached him he found that the boy was hanging over a jutting branch at a spot where the sea was almost immediately beneath his swaying form, while one foot had become wedged in a hole.

"Hang on, old chap!" cried Leonard, encouragingly. "You'll soon be on the top, blacking boots as you go."

If Jim smiled, only the ocean saw it, for nothing else was in front of his face; but it is doubtful whether Jim did smile. He was far too uncomfortable.

A few moments later, he felt hands groping at his foot. There was a sudden, shooting wrench of pain, and then the foot was free.

A strong arm encircled him. The sea changed its position below him, and disappeared. For a second or two, Jim frankly blubbered.

But he desisted tears. He thought nothing of boys who cried. When he discovered, therefore, that he was safe, he grinned fiercely and pretended that the whole thing was immense fun. He became so light-headed, in fact, that Leonard had to speak to him sharply to get him to behave rationally at all.

"I comes dahn arter it, yer see," bubbled Jim.

"I'm sure you did," replied Leonard, "but we'll talk about that later. Now just cling on to me until we reach that rope that's hanging above us. See it? Good. Steady, now!"

They reached the rope, and Leonard tied it round the boy's body. Then, by careful stages, they ascended to the top, finally assisted over the edge by eager hands.

A minute went by, for the regaining of breath. Then Leonard turned to Jim and said:

"Now tell us how you got into that most extraordinary position! Did you fall over, Jim—or what?"

"It was the note-book, sir," replied Jim. "Yessir, I tracked it to the cliff!"

"What?" exclaimed Leonard.

"Yessir. It was like this. When I leaves yer I see 'Looby's' took it. That's not it is, Looby?"

"I see. And after the spite, 'I saw me writin' in it yesterday, and 'e wanted to 'ave a look, but I see, 'No, Looby, it's privy, and 'e gets cross. So it was a easy bet 'e'd slipped it from my pocket, so I goes to find 'im, but 'e want' nowhere, so I see to meself. 'Orl right, Looby, yours is size seven, so I'll 'ave yer. And I tracks 'is steps from the back door and along the path wot comes 'ere, but I loses 'em on the grass, but I sees 'em again along another path and tracks 'em to the shed. But 'e ain't there, and I comes back 'ere agin, and lookin' over the edge there's my note-book."

Jim paused for breath, and Jessica asked, after a glance at Leonard:

"Do you mean, Jim, that your book was lying down the cliff?"

"Yes, miss," answered Jim. "I sees it there. And I climbs down arter it, but I slips, and just as I'm bondin' down to pick it up, I nips agin, and the book goes inter the sea, and golly I thort I was goin' in arter it. But I 'its a tree, and me foot gets caught, and then I starts 'ollerin'. And then Mr. Sefton comes along, and—and that's orl."

"Quite enough, too, I think," commented Leonard. "So your note-book is now in the sea, eh?"

"Yessir," answered Jim, in depressed tones.

"And—do you still think Luigi took it?"

"Yessir."

"But why should he throw it down the cliff?"

"Spite, sir. Bein' a furrenner."

"I see. And after the spite, fright? Is that your theory?"

"Well—'e seems to 'ave milder 'isselt scarce, ain't 'e?"

"Oh, I dare say he'll soon come back again," remarked Leonard, lightly. "Meanwhile, don't worry, Jim. My advice to you is to take it easy for a bit—you've had a bit of a shaking—and then to go on with your work."

"Yessir," said Jim, and rose to his feet. He was a trifle unsteady, but he managed to draw himself up to his full height—which was not much—as he added, "I did find

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY
THE THEATRES

In "Sally's Luck," the new Fox film, opening at the King's Theatre to-day, James Dunn and Sally Eilers prove once again that they are the most vivid romantic team on the screen. The promise they gave in "Dad Girl," the picture that lifted them both to the cinematic skies is fulfilled in generous measure by their joint performance in "Sally's Luck."

Dunn plays the role of a happy-go-lucky fellow, always ready to fight but always naive in the ways of the world. Sally Eilers, as the girl who is responsible for it all, is the perfect foil. They meet quite accidentally, as is usually the case with a girl and a girl, and from then on the action is hectic and hilarious. Dunn represents the attention that other men pay to Miss Eilers, but the girl happens to be the kind that provokes attention. She just can't help it. After a series of misadventures, and a separation provided by both the United States Navy and a quarrel of their own, the two are re-united in a climax of rare entertainment. The supporting cast is excellent in a number of character portrayals, each of which is a gem. It includes Samson Colton, Frank Moran, Victor Jory, Esther Muir, Will Stanton, Curley Wright, Jerry Mandy, Lucien Littlefield, Buster Phelps and Frank Atkinson.

Raoul Walsh, the guiding genius of "What Price Glory" and "The Cock-Eyed World," directed "Sally's Luck" with the sure touch of a man who knows comedy when he sees it.

"The Sign of the Cross."

The day of the million-dollar spectacle-drama has returned. And, as far as Hollywood is concerned, prosperity has at last managed to get around that mythical corner. Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross," a spectacle of pagan Rome in the days of Nero, last of the Caesars, was the picture which did the trick. Like DeMille's "The Ten Commandments" and "The King of Kings," "The Sign of the Cross," which opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre, was produced on a gigantic scale, with thousands of players, elaborate settings and all the other features that run up bills, but also audiences into awed delight in the magnificence they are beholding.

Nearly 7,500 persons made up the cast of "The Sign of the Cross." These include Frederic March, Elissa Landi, Claudette Colbert, Charles Laughton, and others in leading roles, and thousands of "extras" who appear in Roman street scenes and in the arena in which Nero stages his bloody games.

Practically the entire Paramount ranch, comprising several score acres of land near Hollywood was converted into a section of the City of Rome as it was in Nero's day. Streets, public squares and houses were duplicated from research based on several hundred years of excavations in the Imperial City. These settings were later destroyed by fire, when DeMille filmed Nero's burning of Rome.

An elaborate Roman bath, in which Miss Colbert, as the Empress, is photographed during the course of her ablutions, was constructed from blueprints and charts of baths uncovered in recent excavations.

Most elaborate of all the settings was a duplication of the Circus Maximus, a huge amphitheatre which for several hundred years was the scene of the bloody gladiatorial combats and chariot races in which the Roman populace delighted. A huge structure, the original Circus Maximus seated 150,000 persons. DeMille built a section of the grandstand large enough to seat the 7,500 extras, as well as the entire 50,000-square-foot arena in which the games were actually conducted.

"Westward Passage"

Can a woman really love twice? Does a true first passion ever die completely? Those are the questions asked and answered in "Westward Passage," the Ann Harding starring picture at the Central Theatre to-day.

In her superb performance as the love-tortured woman, Miss Harding is closely pressed for honours by Laurence Oliver and Irving Pichel, who play husband number one and husband number two respectively.

"Westward Passage" was directed by Robert Milton and besides Miss Harding, Oliver and Pichel also in the cast are Zasu Pitts and Irene Purcell.

"I Loved You Wednesday"

"I Loved You Wednesday," the Fox screen presentation of the successful Broadway play of the same name, with a cast of notable screen personalities, starts on Sunday at the King's Theatre. Henry King, director of "State Fair," is said to have duplicated his success with this film in which his all-star cast includes Warner Baxter, Elissa Landi, Alfrida Jordan, Victor Jory and Laura Hope Crews.

The story revolves around the glamorous figure of a ballet dancer in Paris who, seeking to heal the wounds left by an unfortunate love affair, goes to South America to launch on a professional dancing career. There she meets a handsome engineer who falls in love with her. Their work separates them, but they meet later in New York, each of them having a measure of fame. They are about to embark on a honeymoon trip aboard his yacht, when her Paris lover puts in a sudden appearance and complicates matters.

The manner in which four worldly-wise people meet this situation, the dancer, her engineer-fiance, her former lover and his beautiful but neglected wife is said to be absorbing, and the denouement is reported as a distinct surprise.

The Midnight Follies of 1933-34.

Few travelling companies can boast the clever array of talent to be seen at the King's Theatre on Sunday when the Midnight Follies of 1933-34 hold forth. Featured in the production is a beauty chorus outstanding in ability and appearance. These clever girls sing and dance themselves into favour immediately with their modern topsichore.

Supporting artists are Frank Braidwood, the cowboy baritone, in a real Western singing act. He has been a featured attraction in all the continental and American variety theatres, besides being the husband of Kitty Watson, of the famous Watson Sisters. Frank Braidwood is a musician singer and comedian and is a perfect foil for the comedy troupe of the performance of Midnight Follies.

Betty and Arlene are star acrobatic dancing marvels and are making their very first appearance in the East. They are from Continental successes. Their act is filled with thrills and excitement and exceeds anything yet offered in Acrobatic Dancing. They hold an audience spellbound for the time of their appearance.

Luba Haskins, a clever little artist filled with sparkle and versatility is offering her sensational acrobatic snake Dance of Death with which she has made a tremendous success

PROOF OF GERMAN AGGRESSIVENESS

HITLER'S CHALLENGE

NAZI ENTHUSIASM IN COLOGNE AREA

THE ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Cologne, Oct. 26.

The visit of Herr Hitler to Cologne to address an election meeting to-day evoked a remarkable demonstration of popular enthusiasm.

Long before the hour fixed for the meeting, thousands of people poured in to Cologne from the surrounding countryside, every train arriving being crowded to overflowing.

In the town itself, every house was decorated with flags and the streets were thronged with people.

The introductory speeches in the spacious exhibition buildings were inaudible, in the storm of cries "Hail Hitler!"

Punctuated by rounds of applause, Herr Hitler's speech was largely a reiteration of his Berlin address of October 24, and he repeated his challenge to the world to show proof of German aggressiveness.

Hitler again asserted that Germany is solely actuated by a longing for peace and reconciliation.

ELECTION ARRANGEMENTS. It has been officially announced by Captain Goering, Reich Minister of the Interior, that in order to ensure that the perfect fairness of the election on November 12 will be clearly apparent, reliable men outside the Nazi Party will co-operate in the electoral organisation, while the votes will be counted publicly.

Surprise, meanwhile, has been created by the fact that the name of Herr Hugenburg, appears on the Governmental electoral list which is now being prepared.

JINGOISM DENOUNCED. Emphatically denouncing jingoism and re-affirming once more Germany's passionate and genuine desire for peace, Chancellor Adolf Hitler, at the foot of the monument erected in honour of those who died in the great wars of liberation, spoke to thousands of Storm Troopers at Kehlheim on Sunday, the report of this gathering being the alleged cause of the arrest of Mr. Noel Pantor, the Munich correspondent of the Daily Telegraph.

"We who have been in the trenches for 4½ years know how dreadful and heavy are the burdens which war places on a nation," the Nazi leader said. "We are probably best qualified to distinguish between cheap jingoism and a real and profound connexion with the own people. The German people do not long for war. On the contrary, because they love peace, they are fighting for their very existence and continuance. Our aim is to make our people happy again, to give them work and bread, again and the world should leave us alone. We want nothing but peace, but we refuse to be degraded."

REALISABLE TREATIES. We frankly tell the world, if you wish to have us at international conferences, if you want to have us in the League of Nations we are agreeable, but only if you recognise us as a nation.

"We were, and are, at all times ready to sign treaties, if they could be realised and if they are in conformity with our feeling for right and justice. We want peace, but the world must know that, in the long run, this ever-lasting degradation of our people cannot be endured. There is no better guarantee for the cause of peace than the determined unity of the German nation."

What else, the Chancellor emphasised, can 60,000,000 people crowded together on a narrow base, with millions of lives and homes destroyed, with millions of people out of work, desire but work in peace and to see the light again?

DRIVERS WHO "GO SOME"

MAGISTRATE ON KOWLOON TRAFFIC

AN UNREPORTED ACCIDENT

"Since I have been over here, I have noticed that lorry drivers do 'go some' on this side," said Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning when dealing with two lorry drivers who were summoned for driving at excessive speeds. One was alleged to have driven at 32 miles an hour and the other at 31. Fines of $15 were imposed on each.

A traffic accident in Kowloon in the early hours of October 16 was recalled when E. C. Funck was summoned for failing to report it. It was alleged that the defendant knocked down two traffic posts at the junction of Argyle Street and Nathan Road and failed to make a report until he discovered that he was wanted by the Police.

Inspector Saunders said that after the accident, a Police constable and a number of coolies helped defendant to right his car. Defendant said he would see if the car was still in working order and he did not return.

TO BUSY TO REPORT. Defendant—I was slightly injured at the time, and intended to make a report the next morning. I was very busy the next morning, and could not make a report until in the afternoon.

Inspector Saunders.—It was not until he found that he was looking for him that he made a report.

His Worship (to defendant).—A telephone message would be sufficient. You should have done so right away. The object of making a report is that you are not always aware at the time of what may happen later in connexion with the accident. If the Police know of the accident at once, they can go down at once to make inquiries, and may find witnesses who may be of value to you.

A fine of $10 was imposed. Inspector Saunders.—The bill for the damage done to the posts will be sent to the defendant by the Public Works Department.

INTERPORTER ADMONISHED. W. Lawrence, the interporter swimmer, was fined $10 for disobeying traffic signals in Salisbury Road on October 2. It was alleged that although the signal was against him, defendant drove past the Peninsula Hotel in the direction of Hung Hom.

Defendant stated that all the way from the ferry he saw the signal against him. There was no traffic at the time and he was going slowly. He therefore did not think there was any danger.

His Worship.—You are not allowed to exercise your discretion in this matter. You didn't know what was around the corner, and that's what the signal was there for—to guide you. If you pay no heed, you might find yourself landing in the middle of a bus.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE. Mr. V. Y. Chow, formerly foreign editor of the Sin Wan Pao, Shanghai, and now China Correspondent for the Sydney Labour Daily and Brisbane Telegraph is a new arrival in Hongkong and intends to make the port his headquarters.

Mr. Chow is also an official representative of the Queensland trade in the Far East.

He is representing the Queensland Government's State Advances Corporation, which is in the nature of a distributing and selling agency for Queensland's famous hardwoods.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

"MAXIMS DO NOT COUNT FOR MUCH UNLESS YOU KNOW HOW TO USE THEM."—John N. Willys.

So Cheung, a returned banished, was sentenced to nine months' hard labour by Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistracy this morning. The man was banished for ten years in March this year.

After exhaustive inquiries, police no longer entertain the theory that an Indian or coloured man was concerned in the alarm raised at the Victoria Square home of Viscount Batemore by Miss Flattin—Reuter.

To-morrow, St. Simon and St. Jude's Day, marks the first anniversary of the consecration of The Right Reverend Ronald Owen Hall, Bishop of Hongkong, the consecration having taken place in St. Paul's Cathedral, London last year on this day. Holy Communion will be celebrated in St. John's Cathedral to-morrow at 7.45 a.m.; the Celebrant being the Bishop. It is hoped that a good number will be present.

There was a clean bill of health in the Colony on Wednesday, so far as regards notifiable diseases.

While sharpening a knife at Koon-choon Market, in the New Territories, yesterday, Wong Lee, aged 53, fell backwards from a stool and struck his head on the ground. The injury resulted in his death after admission to the Kowloon Hospital.

A fine of $50 or one month's hard labour was imposed by Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning on Yee, unemployed, who pleaded guilty to stealing a purse from a compatriot in Possession Street last night. Defendant snatched the purse, which contained 41 cents, from the complainant's pocket.

Lt. Col. Robertson, Hongkong Club, will be glad to receive any article which may be auctioned on Armistice Day for the benefit of Earl Haig's Fund, and earnestly hopes that a good response to this appeal may be made. He is encouraged to appeal again this year owing to the very generous gifts sent last year.

A Legend Of Modern Hongkong

ILLITERATE LORE

"Now these are the words of Ho Hiu-sang, an Elder of the people and well learned in the wisdom of the ancients."

"It is recorded in the legends and it has been seen by all believers that a lion and a unicorn, so-called by two western people, took up their abode one time long ago on a high building which was called 'Tai Wai Tong' and was the City Hall of the foreign devils."

"And it was known among the ancients that this strange figure was the Flying Horse and that it would bring good fortune to the people and protect them. They therefore held it in great respect and honour and the country people made pilgrimages to see it and to show it to their children."

"There came a time when the Flying Horse became voracious and at night ran down from his high place and devoured the unfortunate walkers in Statue Square. This happened for many moons and the belly of the beast was fed by many people, and it was not safe to walk alone at night there."

"On a certain night the Wong Hau, the great Queen Victoria, stepped down from her statue and drove the beast back with a great sceptre. Then a chain was put round the neck of the Flying Horse and it could not get away."

"The simple folk of the country were again able to come and look at it without fear."

"Now it has happened that the Tai Wai Tong has been pulled down by the Western People and the Flying Horse has gone away."

"It is written in the book of wisdom of the Elders that it is bad to change 'Fung Shui'. The Western people call in geomancy but we know it as the science of lines and places, which should never be changed. Since the day when the Flying Horse went away, there is something not good there. It is a hoodoo, say the people who live there and they are afraid."

UNLICENCED CAR

MR. B. L. GUTIERREZ SUMMONED

Summoned before Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning for having failed to licence his private car, B. L. Gutierrez was fined $10.

Mr. J. B. Prentiss, appeared for defendant, and pleaded guilty saying that it was an oversight on the part of his client and that the licence had since been taken out.

DANGEROUS DRIVING. Yuen Wai-kai, a public car driver, was fined $25 for having driven in a dangerous manner in Whitefield.

Sub-inspector Rogers said that the defendant came up from behind a stationary tramcar and cut in between it and an on-coming car. To avoid a collision he swerved into a side street. He had three passengers in the car.

Ng Kai-cheung, another public car driver, summoned for a similar offence, was also fined $25.

Sergeant Jamieson said that the case arose through a rush of public cars to pick up a fare in Queen's Road, West. Defendant reversed his vehicle about twenty yards, and nearly collided with another public car.

THE "BLUES"

REPEAT EXHIBITION YESTERDAY

Repeating by special request London's latest Blues, Mr. J. A. Andrew and Miss Ursula Preston yesterday entertained another huge crowd at the Hongkong Hotel Roof Garden.

The slow dance is rapidly becoming the favourite among local Chinese dancers and there was no mistaking the enthusiasm in their greeting of the demonstrators' exposition of the Blues, one of the most graceful of all dances.

This afternoon Mr. Andrew and Miss Preston make their final appearance at the Hotel tea dance, and a record crowd is anticipated.

To-morrow evening they open a season at the Peninsula Hotel, when in company with Doa and Sally, they will give three numbers.

Their third number is to be a novelty dance, and although they are keeping its form a strict secret, I am in the position to reveal that it will be something worth while.—S.A.G.

ALLEGED SALE OF CHILD

TWO WOMEN CHARGED THIS MORNING

Kyu Sam Shum, widow, and Leo Ng-shun, a married woman, appeared before Mr. Balfour in the Central Police Court this morning charged with taking part in the transfer of a baby, aged about three months, for a valuable consideration, on October 23 last.

Detective-Inspector Elston produced the Attorney General's consent to the prosecution. He said the two women brought the baby to Hongkong and sold him to another woman.

Chan Fung, widow, living at 29, Cross Street, said she purchased the child from the two defendants, the price agreed being $65. She paid $5 as deposit. The child stayed with her for two nights.

The hearing was adjourned to Tuesday morning.

NAVY DAY PLANS

PROGRAMME FOR TO-MORROW

AMUSEMENT PARK FOR KIDDIES

To-morrow the Senior Service will be at Home in the Royal Naval Dockyard on the occasion of Navy Day.

From 1.30 p.m. until 6 p.m. the public will have the opportunity of inspecting the different types of naval craft, and watching an aerial display, while the kiddies will find everything to amuse them in an amusement park which is to be laid out on the football ground.

The first half of the programme will comprise Crossing the Line on the West Wall East, destroyers in action in the Basin, a Howitzer display on the Football Ground and Crossing the line on the West Wall East. An aircraft display will take place during the tea interval. Following tea a display will be given by the pipers from the 9th Jat Regiment, and "Retreat" will be played by the bands at 6.30 p.m.

Cinema performances are to take place in the Dockyard Garage, and naval divers can be seen at work in the North-east corner of the Basin. The amusement park will include an aerial railway, Aunt Sallies, chutes and a general playground for children.

Vessels which will be thrown open for inspection will be H.M.S. Eagle, H.M.S. Suffolk, six destroyers, one or two submarines and one of the river gunboats. While the public are waiting to go on board periodic talks on the capabilities of the submarine will be given by one of the submarine officers.

Tens will be served aboard the Tamar and the Eagle and other places in the Yard.

Music will be provided by military bands on the football ground and on the Dockyard wall in the south-east corner of the basin, the band of H.M.S. Suffolk on the Tamar, the band of H.M.S. Berwick at the head of the dry dock and of H.M.S. Eagle in the hangar.

The public will not, under any circumstances, be permitted to take cameras into the Dockyard.

The price of admission ($1) covers entrance to the Dockyard, visits to H. M. Ships and views of all displays. No extra charge will be made except for refreshments, entrance to side shows on the Dockyard Football Ground and for speed boat trips.

THESE CRICKET TRIALS

WHY THEY ARE SO FUTILE

SELECTING A H.K. ELEVEN

ATTACK LACKS VIRILITY

By "The Stumper."

This being the eve of the third and final trial to assist the Selection Committee in picking a Hongkong XI to play against Shanghai and Malaya in the forthcoming Triangular Interport, I have chosen the moment to commence my cricket notes. Interest in cricket must be centred, for the next month at least, on the interport matches, and I propose to discuss Hongkong's prospects and players in this article.

After the form shown by some of the leading local players at the end of the last cricket season, I must confess to a feeling of disappointment at the exhibition of most of them during the trials. I walked away not only disappointed, but also with a conviction that trials were not a bit of good and that no harm could be done by scrapping them in future. What good are trials if they did not show you a man's real capabilities?

OBSESSION WHICH DESTROYS.

Have you noticed a normally good batsman going to the wicket with only one thought in his mind—to impress the Selection Committee at any cost—and this becoming such an obsession that he fails to do himself justice? That seems to be the matter with most of our younger players at the trials.

But I am one of the staunchest supporters of this "Interport News" scheme, which was started some years ago. Under the scheme, candidates for interport honours are allowed to practise at these nets and the Selection Committee are given an opportunity of watching them in action. I think this is a very sound idea and offers a good chance of gauging a player's capabilities.

But since it has been decreed that we must have trials, let us discuss what we have learned from the last two. To begin with, it has to be admitted that whilst we are in a happy position as regards batsmen, we are definitely weak in attack.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

F. D. Pereira, F. Goodwin, A. C. Hamilton, C. C. Garthwaite and E. R. Duckitt are all more or less the same type. Then we have perhaps our best batsman in A. R. Minu, who is left-handed; G. C. Burnett, a clever medium paced bowler who flirts the ball very well; and slow bowlers in A. H. Madar, T. A. Pearce and H. Owen Hughes. Even so I am afraid this attack is not good enough to dismiss the visiting teams cheaply.

E. O. Fincher's position as opening batsman is not quite safe. He is by far our best opening batsman. By his display in the second trial, Duckitt increased his chances of inclusion considerably. I think he should partner Fincher as Hongkong's opening pair. We have not yet seen T. A. Pearce at the trials, and report has it that he is not quite fit. He showed enough last year to prove that, if fit, he should fill the No. 3 position. He is also a fine fielder, and it would be a pity if he cannot take part.

A batsman who has been in the limelight lately is Capt. P. V. Williams. I watched him at the trials and admired his quick footwork and wonderful leg-shots. I recommended any young player wishing to learn the leg-glance to study him. He gave me the impression that he is rather weak on the off, but he seems to be able to make runs. I think he should be included.

THE CAPTAINCY.

Two Army players who seem to have about the same claims for inclusion are Lt. Hamilton, of the South Wales Borderers, and Lt. Garthwaite, of the Royal Artillery. Both are well in the League last season, but the latter has not performed anything of note in the trials. Both are all-rounders—two of the best in Hongkong—but the Borderers man has the advantage of previous experience in interport cricket.

The career of captaincy will probably fall on the shoulders of A. W. Hayward, but on form alone I doubt if he is worth his place in the side. Of course his experience of interport cricket would be a great asset to the side. He is not the Hayward of old, particularly in his holding which has become sluggish.

Although H. Owen Hughes made a half century last Saturday, his innings did not impress me at all. He

In a Steel, Coulson billiards tourney held last night, the St. Patrick's Club defeated the R. A. Sergeants' Mess, four matches to two.

The following are the scores, the first named player in each case being the St. Patrick's representative.

O'Connor 160 Jones 143; Bailey 130, Woods, 150, Jordan 160, Hardy 93; Glendenning 150, Clarke 148; Miller 112, Longman 150; Remedios 150; Fine 118.

Interport Cricket Teams

LOCAL SELECTION COMMITTEE

The first official announcement of the Shanghai and Malaya Interport cricket teams has been made by the Hongkong Cricket Club this morning.

In addition the selection committee of the Hongkong eleven has been made known. It comprises Messrs. R. H. B. Hancock, T. E. Pearce, A. W. Hayward and H. Owen Hughes.

The two visiting teams are as follows:

SHANGHAI.

D. W. Lench (Captain)
R. Booth
J. A. Isaacs
J. C. Jenkins
P. Madar
J. F. N. Mayhew
J. L. Rawthorne
P. V. Simpson
A. C. Sinclair
L. Stokes
T. W. R. Wilson
H. T. Smith (Manager)
F. E. T. Marshall (May come).

MALAYA.

R. N. Hamilton (Captain)
L. Alvis
D. C. Hurn
F. L. V. Croome, R. A. F.
R. G. Gibson
B. S. Gill
W. O. Jonkass
R. B. Lewis
H. Morgan, R. A. F.
C. A. Speldewinde
Eu Chow Telk
G. Willis
W. W. Dean (Umpire)
W. D. Charlton (Scorer).

was terribly dull at first, but livened up towards the end when he showed glimpses of his old form—paradoxically enough when the light was getting bad. He is of course a brilliant slips fielder and quite a useful change bowler.

Of the fast bowlers, I would prefer Pereira to Goodwin if it came to a choice between them. The younger man is faster and also a better fielder, while he can be depended upon to make runs if necessary.

A. R. Minu is in my opinion, should be one of the first choices. He is bowling at the top of his form at the moment.

As regards the position of wicket-keeper, the name of G. S. Dunkley suggests itself. He is undoubtedly the best man we have.

TWO ENIGMAS.

There are two men whom I cannot fathom. They are E. F. Fincher and A. H. Madar, both ex-interporters. They are two of the best club batsmen in the Colony, but invariably fail in trial matches. Is it because they have not got that "big match temperament"? But then Madar made 69 up in Shanghai in 1932, and saved Hongkong from defeat. Madar was bowled first ball on Saturday and E. F. Fincher collected six runs after struggling for over 30 minutes. But Madar is also a reliable slow bowler and will lead variety to the attack should he be included.

The following are my selections for the Hongkong XI, in their order of batting:

E. C. Fincher (K.C.C.)
E. R. Duckitt (H.K.C.C.)
T. A. Pearce (H.K.C.C.)
P. V. Williams (Army)
A. C. Hamilton (Army)
H. Owen Hughes (H.K.C.C.), capt.
C. C. Garthwaite (Army)
F. D. Pereira (I.R.C.)
G. C. Burnett (K.C.C.)
A. R. Minu (I.R.C.)
G. S. Dunkley (H.K.C.C.)
A. H. Madar (I.R.C.), 12th. man.

This side includes seven really good batsmen, and has a tail which can wag very vigorously should the occasion demand. We will see some fireworks if Pereira, Minu and Burnett get going. As a fielding side, it can hardly be improved upon.

SOUTH CHINA RETURN TO THE ARENA

SAINTS' 100 PER CENT IN DANGER

KOWLOON DUE TO WIN

CLUB WITHOUT FOGWELL & HYNES

WRIGHT RETURNS TO TEAM

(By "Veritas").

Apart from one or two attractive ties to-morrow, chief interest in league football this week-end is to be found in the return to the arena of South China, who, fresh from their successes in Nanking and Shanghai, entertain St. Joseph's on Sunday.

And unless a 48 hours sea trip has robbed the champions of their legs, or St. Joseph's can show they have learnt a thing or two during the absence of their opponents, I feel that the Saints are going to have their 100 per cent record spilt.

St. Joseph's were not a little lucky to retain the much-coveted record last week and as they cannot expect to be treated so generously by the South China forwards as they were by the Kowloon sharpshooters (!), the defence will have to be at its very best to remain intact.

If nothing else the occasion should offer A. V. Gosano unlimited scope to reveal his abilities, and there is small doubt that he will seize the opportunities with both hands. For "A.V." never worries about the odds.

South China can rest assured that a warm welcome will await them from their enthusiastic supporters, who for three weeks now have been denied the sight of their favourites in action.

It should be an entertaining match, for say what you will, St. Joseph's have tons of good football in them.

Heath, the Lincoln goalkeeper, who is fast earning for himself the reputation of being the best custodian in the Colony.

whilst the merits of South China are too well recognized to demand recapitulation.

PICK OF PROGRAMME.

Of to-morrow's matches, the pick seems to be the meeting of Kowloon and the Athletic on the Railway ground, and the Club and Police down at the Valley.

After the cavalier manner in which they were treated by the Borderers and the Navy, it is not to be expected that the Athletic will take the field bursting with confidence, more so when they recollect the two very fine performances of Kowloon against the Lincolns and St. Joseph's.

Frankly I feel the Peninsula team is due for a win and that it is going to be at the expense of the Athletic. Anyhow one slight, but important, alteration has been made in the Kowloon line-up.

Lewis has been transferred to the inside-left berth, where it is expected he will form a powerful wing with Blake, who just now is playing first rate football. Kowloon are certainly relying on this wing to do big things, and there is no reason why they should be disappointed.

Jones, a victim of dengue, is still an absentee, and Timberlake resumes at centre-half, flanked by Whitfield and Webb, of course, has been put back in his original position at inside-right, where with V. White he should feel more at home.

THE CLUB'S NIGHTMARE.

With last week's nightmare still fresh in the memory, the Club will take the field against the Police with only one concern and one desire—a return to shooting form. I think the Club can, and will, beat the Police, but only when greater accuracy is shown in front of goal.

South China return to their senior league programme to-morrow, and here is the team which is expected to be on duty. Standing: Li Tin sang, Leung In chan, Lai Kwok wai, Wong Wing, Lau Mau, Leung Shui yick, Wong Mee shun, Pau Ka-ping, Tam Kong pak and Ip Pak-wa. (Photo: Ming Yuen).

The Club have been robbed of the services of Fogwell and Hynes for this match. No substitute has yet been found for Fogwell, but C. A. Wright comes in for Hynes at right back. In other departments the team remains unchanged.

Three alterations in the league programme were announced this morning.

In the second division the Young Indians-Athletic match is postponed as the Young Indians are taking part in the sports at Caroline Hill.

Navy Day celebrations have caused the postponement of the third division tie between the Air Force and the Royal Engineers.

And the third division match between South China and the Borderers has been given a new venue. It will be played on St. Joseph's ground at Happy Valley instead of Caroline Hill, as the inter ground is being used for school sports.

The entrance fee for each of these events is $1 per team and entry forms can be obtained at the Association's premises at China Building. Entries will be closed on Oct. 31 at 6 p.m.

K.C.C. Decide To Adopt Badminton

STARTING VERY SHORTLY

(By "Veritas")

It is expected that badminton, that most popular of all indoor winter sports in England, will become an integral part of the social amenities of the Kowloon Cricket Club with the next ten days.

Decision has been reached to lay down a court in the Club's main hall, and when this is accomplished it will be the finest badminton court in the Colony.

Arrangements for the official opening of the court are now proceeding apace, and if the examples to be seen in England stand as any criterion, Badminton will shortly be one of the most popular features at the K.C.C.

ENORMOUS POPULARITY.

The game has enjoyed enormous popularity in England since the war, and there are now nearly as many people playing badminton as tennis.

Efforts were made twelve months ago to popularise the game in Hongkong, but no more definite step in this direction has been made than the decision of the Kowloon Cricket Club to include it in its amenities.

When the game is under way at the K.C.C., the Colony will be able to point to its development at St. Andrew's, Tai Koo, The Peak Club, the Jockey Club and the K.C.C.

ENGLAND'S TEST WIN

AUSTRALIA LOSE RUGBY LEAGUE

Scoring late in a hard game at Manchester, England beat Australia in the first Rugby League Test by 4 points to 0.

Slight rain made a greasy ball difficult to handle, and it took both sides a long time to settle down.

Even the sure-kicking Sullivan failed with three penalty shots in the first half, and for the most part it was a desperate struggle between the forwards.

England, indeed, did not get really together until the second half, when a brilliant passing movement in which Featherham, Risman and Ellaby were concerned was one of the brightest interludes of a rather disappointing match. When however, Ellaby put they ball inside his pass was forward.

Gradually England got on top, and at last—after sixty-three minutes—Sullivan opened the score with a penalty. The English captain repeated the performance five minutes later following an off-side offence by Thickness.

COUNTY RUGBY

GLAMORGAN BEATEN BY MONMOUTH

London, Oct. 26.

At Pontypool to-day, Monmouthshire and Glamorgan met in a county league rugby match, when Glamorgan were beaten by 10 points to six.

Oxford University entertained Newport, and after a fine match won by nine points to five. Newport

SAINTS LOSE

Friendly Hockey Match

Playing without the services of their skipper A. E. P. Guest, who is in hospital, F. V. Wong, also in hospital, and A. S. Bliss, three leading lights in defence, the St. Andrew's Club were defeated by the Jats Regiment by three clear goals after a friendly fixture.

A feature of the game was the brilliant play of E. H. P. White, at right back for the club. Time and again he frustrated the Indians' strong attack and held the fort with credit.

A faster moving forward line proved a valuable asset to the Jats, the combination of Lt. Syer at centre-forward and Jall at inside-left being prominent. At centre-half Sir John Khan played his usual steady game, while the backs cleared with some hard shots. Early in the first half, the club missed a glorious opportunity of taking the lead when N. Mackay, with only the goalkeeper to beat, shot wide. The Jats launched an attack after attack. Jall finding the net with a good first-timer.

In the second period of the game Jall, on the club's left wing, sent in some good centres, which however bore no result. The visitors' forward line showed better combination, but were held at bay by a strong defence.

Jall added the second goal from a difficult angle, and towards the end, Syer went through to net the third.

St. Andrew's Scouts Win.

In a friendly hockey match, played on the Marina ground yesterday afternoon, the St. Andrew's Boy Scouts' Team defeated the St. Andrew's Club Ladies by four goals to one.

IN HOCKEY ATTIRE

KHAKI SHORTS FOR GIRLS

KEEN ENCOUNTERS NEXT WEEK

By "Bully-Oh"

THE Central British School girls have set up a new and attractive fashion in the way of hockey-wear, and one which is likely to prove popular, especially in Hongkong. They have abandoned the once-honoured skirt and gym tunic for shorts and shirts, the shorts being of khaki, and the shirts of a light blue with the School badge on the pocket.

DESPITE the fact that the School team is comprised mainly of newcomers to hockey, they are already shaping well under the tuition of Miss Knill. They have been kept hard at practice and it was gratifying to see the standard of hockey they showed when they met the Central British Association Ladies on Monday and held them to the odd goal in three. With a little more practice and the experience they can gain by playing with superior teams they should not figure with success in the Caer Clark Cup.

THE appearance of a "mystery" player for the Radio in the Mamak tournament game with the Hongkong Mule Corps at Caroline Hill on Sunday caused some concern between the umpire and the members of the Radio committee. Just before the commencement of the game a clean-shaven, sturdy-built Indian walked on to the field in the Radio colours and took up his position at left back. There was some talk of the Radio "losing points" for fielding an unregistered player, but the "mystery" was solved with the explanation that it was only J. S. Grewal minus his beard and moustache!

THERE are some interesting games on the list for the coming week and a high standard of hockey should result from many of the encounters. Of the Mamak games, to-morrow's match between the Royal Signals and the German Club promises to be a close contest, but I think the Signals will just manage to scrape home with the two points.

THERE should be little to choose between the K.I.T.C. and the Hongkong Police who meet on the Police Training School ground on Sunday. Both teams have met and defeated the 12th. Battery R.A., the K.I.T.C. by 4-0 and the Police by 5-1. I have not yet seen the teams which will represent the respective Clubs, but if they field the same players as they did against the Battery and the results of two matches are any criterion, a draw can be expected. St. Andrew's meet the R.A.S.C. on the same day and should win by at least a two clear goal margin.

THE Radio should win their match with the Royal Engineers at Caroline Hill on Friday next. The Clubs have already met in a friendly this year when the Radio won by four goals to one.

IF the Mule Corps can field a full side on Friday they should win from the 12th. Battery. In their game with the Radio on Sunday they were weakened owing to the absence of Major Eve at centre-forward and Imam Ali Khan at back. Major Eve was suffering from an attack of influenza and I hope he will be fully recovered by next Friday and leading the Corps' attack.

THE regimental teams of the Borderers and the Lincolns meet for the second time this season on Tuesday on the Chatham Road ground. The game should be worth watching and productive of some good hockey. The previous fixture between the Clubs resulted in a draw of two goals each.

ANOTHER good clash is that between the C.B.A. and the Hongkong Club 1st. XI at King's Park on the following day. It would not surprise me in the least to see the C.B.A. emerge victorious.

Mr. and Mrs. Ho Kailan entered the Second Round of the Colony Mixed Doubles Lawn Tennis Championship when they beat Mr. H. F. Waring and Mrs. Wigham by 7-5, 6-3.

HE LOST HIS TEETH—and HER!
Pyorrhea has done
its deadly work

One tragedy followed another. At first it didn't seem serious. She noticed his bleeding gums and told him not to neglect them, but he did nothing. They became sponge-like and tender. Next the teeth loosened at the very roots! Then one tooth fell out, another had to be pulled out. Now half of them are gone.

Play him? Yes. But he could have avoided it, easily, just as you can avert such a tragedy. Every morning and evening, brush your teeth with Forhan's for the Gums. More than a tooth paste, this scientific dentifrice is prepared to prevent dread pyorrhea. It not only keeps your teeth clean and white, but prevents pyorrhea from attacking your gums, your teeth, and your health.

Forhan's for the Gums is the formula of R. J. Forhan, D.D.S., specialist in mouth diseases. It contains Forhan's Pyorrhea Antiseptic developed by Dr. Forhan and used by dentists throughout the world in the treatment of pyorrhea.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET DULL

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was dull yesterday. Business done 1,220,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal report on yesterday's market: The market was orderly downward, although some steadiness prevailed. It was the dull season for many days and ticks were actually idle at intervals. There was little incentive due to Government gold price being only 18 cents above yesterday's price and thereby ruining optimistic inflationists' hopes. Our New York Office Cable: (This morning).

Stocks: The market absorbed selling well with volume light, and seems to be forming a base for an early resumption of advance. Wheat: The market eased off on smaller buying power and Liverpool action but rallied sharply from declines later. Purchases are advised on all moderate setbacks. Cotton: The market was easier on action of stocks, exchange and some increase in hedge selling. Prices will probably follow gold which is expected to be higher. Spot basis firm. Grey cloth: The market was erratic and closed firm. Outlook doubtful. Cable received at 11.43 p.m. during our Night Service "Expect backing and filling to-day."

WEDDING IN ROME.

Rome, Oct. 26.
Miss Marion Barton, daughter of Sir Sidney Barton, was married yesterday to Baron Falcone, secretary of the Italian Foreign Office. A reception was held after the ceremony in the British Legation to the Vatican by Sir Robert and Lady Clive. —Renter.

"SHADOWS BY THE SEA"

"You took it, didn't you?" "I wouldn't go as far as that, Jim," returned Leonard, "but, anyway, you've made a good guess, and you've done the job I set you."

On the point of departure, Jim enquired, "Ave I still gotter keep mum, sir?"

"As a door-post," nodded Leonard. "And door posts, Jim, don't say a word to anyone."

Jim smiled faintly, then jumped, as a new figure loomed near. But it was only Napoleon Truelove. It annoyed Jim, as he walked back to the hotel, to feel that he had jumped over such a trifle.

"Now, don't lam into me for being late," exclaimed Napoleon. "I spent ten minutes over that letter, and then I couldn't remember whether you said the fly-pond or the rose-garden. So I went to the rose-garden—my luck's always out—and bumped into Mr. Griddle."

"I thought he was going to his room," interposed Jessica. "So did I," answered Napoleon. "In fact, it was rather funny. 'How's your headache?' I said to him, and he replied, 'Written your letter?' Then we both laughed, though the Lord knows why!"

"He didn't believe you'd written a letter?" asked Leonard.

"He had to believe it," retorted Napoleon, "cos I took it out of my pocket and asked if he'd come to the pillar-box with me."

Leonard smiled, and looked at Jessica. She answered his smile. Napoleon Truelove, was proving himself to be quite an astute policeman, after all.

"Finish your story," said Leonard. "Did you go to the pillar-box?"

"Yes. And posted the letter. That's what made me so late. It was to myself in London. I expected it will be redirected on here. 'Hallo, I said in it. 'How are you?' When I got it I shall reply, and tell myself how I am."

Jessica burst into a laugh, and Leonard's heart warmed to his new recruit. It was the first time he had seen Jessica laugh like that; and it made him long to see her laugh again.

For not only was Jessica's laugh a happy laugh (and all laughter is not that), but it made the hearer happy. A natural spring in her nature, temporarily clogged, had temporarily flowed again.

"But I'm still waiting to learn whether Mr. Griddle accompanied you to the letter-box," remarked Leonard.

"He did," nodded Napoleon. "Did he see the name and address on the envelope?"

Napoleon chuckled. "There is a line in one of Henry Arthur Jones's priceless plays that runs, 'I may be an ass, but I'm not a silly ass.' Well, I'm not a silly ass. Mr. Griddle didn't see the name and address, and if he suspects me it can only be because he has a nasty, suspicious nature. But look here,

"I'm sure I could have selected no one better," interposed Leonard. "And, if we make fools of ourselves—"

"It will be nice and natural that I should be one of the fools," Napoleon finished for him. "Doubtless, I'm sure! 'Anything' for the sake of the dear little red herring. But look here, I say—"

"What about the book?" replied Leonard. "Leave that part of it to me, and trot along and do your part. But just shove the shed door open first, will you, so I can chuck in this rope?"

"No necessary," murmured Napoleon. "It's opening all of itself. The door was pushed wide, and Luigi stepped out."

I say! What am I doing all this for? It's time you told me, isn't it?"

"Napoleon's eyes grew wide with amazement when he heard all Leonard had to tell, the last part of what he heard being related to him after Jessica Truelove had returned to the hotel. Under the pretext of colling up the rope and putting it away in the shed, the two men stayed out a few minutes longer, and it was during those few minutes that Leonard briefly outlined the incidents that had occurred at the wreck, and how he proposed to deal with those incidents.

"It's going to be some risk, isn't it?" queried Napoleon, when Leonard had finished. "That is, I mean—if there's anything in it at all—and those sounds weren't imagination."

"If they were imagination," responded Leonard, calmly, "then there'll be no risk."

"H'm But you don't think they were imagination, do you?" "I don't. But they may have been."

"And if they weren't imagination?" "It's absolutely vital that the all too solid facts be dealt with. I'd rather deal with it alone—"

"Why?" "Perhaps," smiled Leonard, "because of the risk. But a personal risk is one thing, and a risk of the failure of justice being done is another. Which is why, Mr. Truelove, I suggest enlisting your assistance in the manner aforementioned."

Napoleon grinned. "Think we'd better drop the 'Mr.' somehow, if we're going to die together," he proposed. "You may call me anything you like but 'Nappy,' which is strictly reserved for a certain person. But look here, I say, isn't it rather priceless that you should pick upon a fellow like me, when you could have selected—"

"I'm sure I could have selected no one better," interposed Leonard. "And, if we make fools of ourselves—"

"It will be nice and natural that I should be one of the fools," Napoleon finished for him. "Doubtless, I'm sure! 'Anything' for the sake of the dear little red herring. But look here, I say—"

Westinghouse
MASTER SERIES

Dual automatic Refrigerators

Twelve years of painstaking research preceded the marketing of the new famous Westinghouse Dual-Automatic electric refrigerator. Westinghouse waited that long because it wanted to make sure that every detail in the refrigerator's construction was as perfect as human ingenuity and science could make it. . . the pains of trial and error were not inflicted upon the buyer. . . in its own extensive laboratories Westinghouse conducted its tests and gave to the public the most advanced refrigerator within the grasp of science.

Now, because in those same laboratories those same scientists have found new ways—WITHOUT ANY BASIC CHANGE—of giving you added beauty—affording you greater economy—increased ice-freezing capacity—at prices which set new standards of value—we are present-of the number of entrants and the keenness shown. The results gave the greatest aggregate of points to the Red House, which led by an extraordinarily large margin.

HEAVY SENTENCE FOR BAD RECORD

Man Pleads He Stole to Help Sick Child

"In view of your record, we both feel it would be a mistake to give you a short sentence, and therefore give you two years hard labour," remarked Mr. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy this morning, when sitting with Mr. Balfour, he heard a case against Wong Chung, an unemployed, charged with having snatched a purse containing $12 from Tang Kwai, a foki, at the Tai Ping Junk Wharf.

Inspector Hourihan said that about 11 a.m. yesterday complainant was standing near the wharf, when he felt his purse being removed. He turned round and saw accused, who ran up the stairway of a house near the wharf. A police officer responded to complainant's shouts, and followed accused up the stairway. After a severe struggle, in which accused broke away several times, he arrested him. The purse had been thrown on the stairway, and was recovered.

Accused said that his child was sick, and he had no work. Twelve previous convictions were admitted by him nine of which were for larceny. The last conviction was three years ago.

Mr. Schofield asked the Inspector to bring the case of the defendant's child to the notice of the Society for the Protection of Children.

ANOTHER CASE.

Tsui Fuk-cheung, an unemployed, was sentenced by Mr. Schofield to six months hard labour for having snatched a handbag containing $6.80 from Chan Sam-mui, a woman, at Johnston Road.

Sub-Inspector Nolloth said that complainant and her friend were walking arm in arm in Johnston Road when defendant came up from behind and snatched the bag from under her left arm.

EXPERT VIEW OF REICHSTAG FIRE

Van der Lubbe Could Not Have Been Alone

Berlin, Oct. 23.

"It was absolutely out of the question for Van der Lubbe to have set fire to the Reichstag alone." This was the considered opinion of Professor Josse, who gave evidence in the Reichstag fire trial to-day.

Professor Josse, who is an expert on such matters and who gave evidence as such, declared that at least 40 lb. of liquid must have been used to fire the Reichstag hall alone. He said that Van der Lubbe had insufficient time to set it alight and that it needed two or more persons.

The Professor believed that the fire started in the stenographers' room and he advanced the theory that the extraordinary rapid spread of the flames could only be explained if material soaked in petrol had been scattered about. He declared that firelighters, as alleged to have been used by Lubbe, were insufficient.—Reuter.

CLEAN PREMISES.

REGULATION OF SANITARY BOARD APPROVED

Formal approval of the Sanitary Board's regulation dealing with the cleanliness of food-preserving establishments was granted by the Legislative Council at yesterday's meeting.

The Attorney General (Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster) in moving that the necessary approval be granted said: "Sir, I rise to move 'That the By-law made by the Sanitary Board under section 10 of the Public Health and Buildings Ordinance, 1903, on the 13th day of October 1933, be adopted.' Under section 17 of Ordinance No. 1 of 1903 the By-laws made by the Board under section 10 require the approval of this Council. Condition (2) of By-law 4 of the Food-preserving establishments By-laws insisted on the maintenance of cleanliness of apparatus, utensils and machinery used but made no reference to the necessity for cleanliness in the premises in which they were used. The amendment will remedy that defect.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the resolution was agreed to.

THE DRUG OF DICTATORSHIPS

MR. THOMAS'S BROADCAST

EMPIRE'S PLACE IN THE SUN

London, Oct. 26.

A warm criticism of dictatorships was made by the Secretary of State for the Dominions during a broadcast address to-night upon the Empire in world politics.

Mr. J. H. Thomas said: "The cause of peaceful co-operation between nations has just received a strong blow. It is not a knock-out blow. The world can and will recover from it. But how best can we help towards this recovery? World-wide co-operation is, for the moment, in great difficulties. But there is in the world a group of nations and peoples, the British Empire, covering between them more than a quarter of the earth's surface and including nearly a quarter of the human race in which co-operation has not only not failed but is living and growing."

Relations between other nations and peoples are based fundamentally on a desire to avoid war. It is to that end that almost the whole of their foreign policy is directed.

It was with that object that the League of Nations was created. The acts of their Governments are wise or foolish as they diminish or increase the dangers of war. The Governments of the British Empire, on the contrary, start from the assumption that war between them is inconceivable. We begin where the others leave off.

POSITIVE ENDS.

We can direct our energy to the positive end of achieving good and not merely to the negative end of avoiding evil. And as a result we can afford, not merely in our relations with one another, but in our relations with the rest of the world to seek other than purely selfish ends.

The real origin of this positive co-operation is an inherent love of personal liberty and self-government in the races which make up the Empire.

It is no mere chance that at a time when Democratic Government is rapidly disappearing elsewhere, within British Empire it was never firmly rooted than it is to-day.

DRUGGED NATIONS.

Dictatorships necessarily look inwards. A nation which has yielded up its liberty must be kept drugged lest it rebel and the easiest drug of all to administer is a strong dose of selfish national conceit. Democracy labours under no such necessity. Mr. Thomas expressed the belief that Imperial co-operation was the explanation of the fact that, relatively to the rest of the world, the British Commonwealth had suffered less during the world economic crisis than had other nations.

WORST OVER.

There were real and hopeful signs that the worst was past and nowhere were those signs more numerous than in the British Empire. He cited the improvement in employment and in trade which have taken place in Britain and the Dominions and referred to the extension of the principle of co-operation in the cases of the recent wheat agreement and the declaration of Monetary and Economic Policy.

He believed that these would lead to other and similar measures by which the hopeless lack of co-ordination between the producer and the consumer which more than any other factor had brought the world to the verge of ruin might be regulated and controlled.—British Wireless.

CANTON-SHANGHAI AIR MAIL.

STORM COMPELS PLANE TO LAND AT FOOCHOW

Shanghai, Oct. 26.

The Sikorsky amphibian plane, Canton, inaugurating the Canton-Shanghai air mail service, encountered a heavy storm on her northward flight this morning and was compelled to land at Foochow.

The plane will resume its flight from Foochow to-morrow morning, arriving here about noon.—Reuter.

The new service is being conducted by Pacific-American Airways, a subsidiary of the famous Pan-American Airways Company. Several survey flights were made by Mr. H. M. Bixby, vice-president of the company.

Later, when certain conditions are fulfilled, the service will be extended to Hongkong and Manila. No passengers, it is understood, were carried on yesterday's flight, as it was not the intention of the company to carry anything but air mail for the first 30 days.

HONGKONG LETTERS.

May Be Sent By Air Mail To Shanghai.

RATES OF POSTAGE.

Letters may be posted from Hongkong for despatch to Shanghai by the new China National Airway Service from Canton, stated local postal officials, when interviewed by a Press representative yesterday.

In order to connect with the air service from Canton, letters must be posted in Hongkong before 7 a.m. on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

In addition to the ordinary postage rates from Hongkong to Canton, ordinary postage rates from Canton to Shanghai, plus 50 cents for each third of an ounce, must be added.

No special air mail bags are being made up in Hongkong. Letters posted in the Colony will be forwarded to Canton for inclusion in the Canton bags. Letters may be posted to Swatow as well as Canton.

The air mail leaves Canton every Wednesday and Saturday at 2.30 p.m., arriving at Shanghai at approximately 11 a.m. on Thursdays and Sundays. On the return trip the planes leave Shanghai on Tuesdays and Fridays at 6 a.m., arriving at Canton at 5 p.m. on the same days.

LOCAL FORESHORES.

DRAFT ORDINANCE NOT PROCEEDED WITH

It was announced yesterday that the Government are not prepared to proceed with the draft Bill of the Foreshore and Seabed Ordinance at the present time.

The Hongkong Foreshore and Sea Bed Works Ordinance met with local opposition on the question of private rights, compensation and the power of the authorities to override private rights.

The draft Bill, together with a letter of protest from the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce, was considered by the Home authorities, and on July 10 the matter was ventilated by a question in the House of Commons.

The Ordinance was sent Home in May. The Colonial Secretary's Office stated at the time that the chief purpose of the ordinance was to permit the Government to resume marine land for public purposes without being compelled to promote a special bill for each project.

Rome, Oct. 26.

Alarmed at the continued decline in the Italian birth rate, the Fascist Party has organised a Festival of Marriage to be held on October 30, when 2,000 couples will be married in Rome and its neighbourhood.

Following the ceremony, the couples will attend Mass and will then march in procession through the streets of Rome to Fascist headquarters, where each couple will receive a present from Signor Mussolini.

A mass baptism of babies will also take place at St. Peter's Church, where Mussolini has promised to present each infant with a complete outfit.—Reuter.

FRESH CAPITAL.

TELEPHONE COMPANY'S APPLICATION

The Legislative Council at yesterday's meeting granted permission to the Hongkong Telephone Company, Limited, to increase its capital by $2,500,000 to cope with development anticipated during the next few years.

In moving the resolutions, the Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. J. J. Green) said: "The object of the Resolutions standing in my name is to provide further necessary capital for the Telephone Company to enable it to cope with the development anticipated during the next few years. Such extensions are, under Section 88 of the Telephone Company's Ordinance of 1925, obligatory. In 1925, when the Company obtained its franchise, its capital was limited to $5,000,000, the whole of which has now been expended and utilised in modernising and extending the system. The Company is now compelled to seek fresh capital to finance further extensions in hand or anticipated."

Under the franchise which imposes certain conditions upon the Company's management, profits are controlled and limited, and similarly an increase of capital requires the consent of this Council. This increase, if granted, will involve a corresponding adjustment of the Company's Reserve Fund so that the annual figure set aside for that purpose will suffice during the residual portion of the franchise to amortise on its termination the subscribed capital. This will necessitate a corresponding amendment, in due course, of Section 35 Subsection (3) of the Ordinance.

Hon. Members will observe that the fresh capital will only be called up as and when required.

The Resolutions.

I move, therefore, that the two resolutions be taken together.

(A). That this Council, in exercise of its powers under section 6 of Ordinance No. 9 of 1925, consents to the authorised capital of the Hongkong Telephone Company, Limited, being increased, from its present limit of $5,000,000 divided into 500,000 shares of $10 each, to $7,500,000 divided into 750,000 shares of $10 each.

(B). That this Council consents to the proposal of the said Company to give its shareholders an option of subscribing to the new issue of capital at a ratio of one new share for every two existing shares held by them; and to the further proposal of the said Company to make such new issue of capital on the payment of $2.50 per share in the first instance leaving the balance to be called up from time to time as may be required.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and both resolutions were agreed to without comment.

YARN PRICES CUT.

JAPANESE INVADING EUROPEAN MARKET

Manchester, Oct. 26. Egyptian yarn spinners are perturbed by reports stating that Japanese fine yarns are appearing in European continental markets at prices 30 to 40 per cent below the cost of similar yarns produced in Lancashire.

The quality and strength of the Japanese yarns is reported to be inferior to the Lancashire product; but represent an improvement on previous Japanese production.

Such is their rapid advance in the textile industry, that the Japanese will soon be serious world market competitors with Egyptian yarns, as they are at present in American yarns.—Reuter.

FIGHTING EXTENDS

IMMEDIATE MENACE TO BANGKOK GONE

PREMIER'S WIFE MAKES OFFER

Bangkok, Oct. 26.

Fighting between Government forces and the insurgents under Prince Bhanuwaradej appears to be extending in scale and preparations are being made for what may prove to be a long campaign.

It is quite evident that early reports of the suppression of the rebellion were distinctly premature and that while the menace to Bangkok has been removed for the moment, the situation is still serious.

This is reflected in the offer of the wife of the Premier, Phya Bhanol, to employ the services of the Women's Party for defence purposes.

BEHIND THE LINES.

The Prime Minister has accepted the offer with the provision that the women's work shall be confined to the rear of the fighting line, their principal task being to help in feeding the troops.

Little news of the progress of the fighting is reaching Bangkok. Strict censorship is being exercised and the official communiques give few hints of importance.

There have been rumours again that the King of Siam has fled, but it is officially stated that he is still in residence at Singora.—Reuter.

The London Daily Mail's correspondent reported on Monday that King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambabai of Siam had fled in the face of the growing revolt against the present Communist-inclined regime.

MURDER TRIAL

COOLIE ACQUITTED ON MAJOR CHARGE

A murderous chop-choi attack on a sleeping man and woman in a sampan at Sha Po on the night of August 6, and the death of the latter from numerous head injuries, were the subject of the charges of murder brought against Fok Kan, alias Tau Pei-lo, at the Criminal Sessions.

After a trial lasting two days, before the Chief Justice, Mr. J.R. Wood, accused was acquitted. Mr. Leo D'Almada defended and was instructed by Mr. H.A. de Barros Bothelo, Mr. J.A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General, appeared for the Crown.

Counsel For Accused.

Mr. D'Almada, in addressing the jury, said it was significant that the prosecution had altered their indictment against prisoner, the charges laid against him at the Taipe magistracy being that of murdering "with wounds not in custody" and of wounding Chan Shing with Pang Nga-shing.

Whilst not suggesting that Chan Shing had falsified his evidence, the jury had no right to accept such evidence, given in the manner it was, and he would also ask them to reject the testimony of the girl, his daughter. She had been the Crown's "star" witness until that day; but examination of Detective Inspector Chester-Woods revealed that on the day after the murder she made no accusation against prisoner and it was not until several days had elapsed and "her imagination had had time to work" that she made statements against him.

Although there were over a dozen other inhabitants of the sheds on the bund the Crown had not been able to produce any more witnesses other than Au So who had merely said he saw a man, apparently Pang, on the bund.

Point for Prisoner.

It was a point in prisoner's favour that he made no attempt to leave the vicinity of the crime and when he was arrested he possessed no booty although the deceased woman had from all appearances been robbed.

Conceding the point that accused knew that Lau Fa had money early in July, he would not have waited such a long time had he intended to possess himself of it.

The fact that his client had not given evidence that day should not be allowed to weigh against him as he had already subjected himself to cross-examination at the Magistracy when he had not the benefit of legal advice.

The suggestion had been made that the motive was robbery, but accused had said that Pang committed the murder for motives of revenge. To support this, they had the fact that the dead woman's "husband", Chang-Shing, had not been very open when questioned as to his exact relationship with the woman and her family.

In conclusion Mr. D'Almada asserted that there was not sufficient evidence adduced by the Crown to warrant a "guilty" verdict.

Half Hour Retirement.

His Lordship, the Chief Justice, summed up the facts of the case and pointed out that although on his own admission, prisoner had been present at the killing, no-one had seen him deliver a blow and it was possible that Pang had first attacked one and then the other.

It was also possible that someone other than Pang had a chop-choi and assaulted the woman whilst he was striking the man. It had not been definitely established that there were only two men involved in the assault. There may have been three. He agreed with prisoner's counsel that Chan had not been very frank in certain parts of his evidence and it had been drawn from him that his "second wife's" husband had sponged on him for some time before he disappeared.

If the jury accepted the girl's story that she saw accused searching the boat, that would go strongly to prove that he was a consenting party to the murder. After a retirement of half an hour the jury returned with a verdict of "not guilty" and prisoner was discharged.

Today's Contract Problem

 IN the following hand, East and West each have 100 honors. South is the dealer.
How should the bidding proceed to arrive at the proper contract?

 North: ♠ 8 5 4 ♥ Q 10
♦ K 8 4 3 ♣ 5 4 2
East: ♠ Q 8 2 ♥ A 7 3
♦ 5 ♣ K Q J 10 8 7
South: ♠ 7 ♥ K 9 7 5 4
♦ Q J 7 2 ♣ 9 6
West: ♠ A K J 10 3 ♥ 8 2
♦ A 10 9 6 ♣ A 2
Solution in next issue.

Solution to Previous Contract Problem

 Although four spades was bid in the preceding problem hand, five was made by a neat triple squeeze.
In duplicate tournament play an extra trick beyond contract is what counts in the final scoring.
Such play is what produces the winner.

The Bidding

 South bid one spade, West passed and North bid no trump. South went to three spades, North bid three no trump and South went to four spades. This definitely said,
"Partner, I prefer to play the hand at spades and do not believe there is any slam in it."

The Play

 Against the spade contract
West opened a small club which East won with the jack. East returned the six of spades and declarer allowed dummy's jack to win the trick. A small club was returned and when East played low the declarer trumped and then led two more rounds of spades, picking up the outstanding trump and discarding a small heart from dummy. East discarded a heart and a diamond.

 Declarer's next play was a small heart and dummy's king was won by East with the ace. If East returns a diamond, the contract can be held to four odd.
However, it looked to East as though his natural return was a small heart which South won with the queen.

 South now started to play his spades. On the queen of spades
West dropped a club, declarer discarded a small diamond from dummy, and East played a heart.
On the seven of spades West played the queen of clubs, dummy the six of clubs and East the nine of clubs.

 On the last spade both sides were squeezed. West could not let go his jack of hearts or dummy's nine would be good, so he let go a diamond. Declarer then discarded the nine of hearts from dummy and East was squeezed.

If he let go his ace of clubs, dummy's king was good, while if he discarded a diamond, declarer would win the last three tricks with diamonds.

WARSHIP COLLISION.
CLAIM AGAINST ADMIRALTY
BY JUNK OWNER
Arising out of a collision some time ago between H.M.S. Wishart and a junk outside the Hongkong harbour limits, a claim for damages has been made against the Admiralty.
It is understood that the matter is in the hands of the Admiralty's solicitors, and that a defence to the claim will probably be entered.
The amount claimed is not stated.

SPECIALTY THEFT

WOMAN REPEATS ACT — BUT IS CAUGHT

"The defendant specializes in this kind of theft, and was convicted for a similar offence under exactly the same circumstances in January last," remarked Sub-Inspector Nolloth when prosecuting Leung Lin, a widow, for the larceny of a box containing a powder box, a handbag containing a pocket knife, the property of Cheung Wai-fan, a married woman, at 205, Johnston Road.

Mr. Schofield sentenced defendant to six weeks hard labour, and an additional one month for having broken her bond, the sentences to run consecutively.

Sub-Inspector Nolloth said that yesterday morning defendant went to complainant's house at 205, Johnston Road, on the pretence that she wanted to rent a cubicle. She saw the principal tenant, and was allowed to look round. When opposite complainant's cubicle, the child she was carrying, acting on her instruction, dropped some money and defendant, on the pretence of picking it up, walked into the cubicle and took the bag. She then said she was not satisfied with the cubicle and walked out.

The complainant did not suspect anything for the moment, but two minutes later when she went into cubicle to get a cigarette, she found the bag missing. She ran down the stairs and caught defendant, who denied the theft. Complainant then took her to the No. 2, Police Station. She still denied the theft, but when searched, the powder box was found in the umbrella she was carrying. She then admitted the offence and said she had thrown the bag on the stairway of 205, Johnston Road. The police later found a school teacher had recovered the bag.

DISARMAMENT PARLEY ADJOURNS

BRITAIN URGES ACTION

London, Oct. 26. The General Commission of the Disarmament Conference decided at Geneva to-day to adjourn until December 4.

In putting forward a proposal to this effect, the Chairman, Mr. Arthur Henderson, emphasised that the Conference must continue its work to arrive at a convention founded on the British draft, which would satisfy public opinion.

If the Conference failed it would be a disaster for the whole world. He recalled that the Bureau favoured an adjournment until December 4 in order to give time to smooth out the existing divergences of opinion.

The British Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Captain Anthony Eden, expressed approval of the proposed short adjournment and remarked that while it was quite clear that the withdrawal of the German delegation could not be without effect on the proceedings of the Conference, the view of the British Government was that however much that event was sincerely deplored, it could not stop their work.

He urged that the delegations must not waste time in contemplation of the past but must deal with the future and should not be distracted from the object of the Conference.

The most effective method must be chosen and that was the Bureau's task.

Representatives of several other nations also expressed approval of

SOVIET'S TRADE WITH BRITAIN

EFFECT OF RECOGNITION BY U.S.A.

London, Oct. 23. Speculation is rife in industrial circles in London regarding the probable effect of the rapprochement, between Soviet Russia and the United States on trade between Britain and Russia.

Russia has been importing considerable quantities of goods from England, particularly machinery and rubber.

It is pointed out that Germany's exports to Russia have fallen considerably in the last year or two. In 1931 these amounted to 481,000,000 roubles. In 1932 to only 324,000,000 roubles and for the first half of 1933 to under 99,000,000 roubles.

Russians in London point out that Britain's denunciation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement last April has been the chief obstacle to her trade with Russia but they say that when a new agreement is concluded Britain's proximity and the lower labour costs compared with those prevailing in the United States should give her a fair share of the Soviet's purchases.

Washington experts are said to calculate that future American sales to Russia should be at least $70,000,000 a year.

Russia's debt to the United States is conservatively estimated at $100,000,000.

No loan issues between Russia and America are generally expected although Russia recently was seeking credits in America for about $30,000,000 for purchases of machinery.—Reuter.

Mr. Henderson's proposal. It remains for the Bureau to draw up a programme of work to be followed during the General Commission's adjournment.—British Wireless.
